Mahon Threatens to Revoke Charters if Carmen Fail to End Strike Tonight

CAR TIE-UP STILL IN FULL EFFECT

Local Union Men Attend Another Conference With Pres. Mahon in Boston

Drastic Steps Must Follow Refusal of Carmen To Return to Work

Lowell enters her second week without electric street car service with no change in the local situation other than an intimation from several authoritative sources that some drastic measures must soon be employed to bring about a resumption of the car traffic. It is said that if the carmen refuse to abide by the order of Pres. Mahon to return to work pending arbitration, the international body will declare all local charters void, which means an absolute break with the parent organization. If this happens, Pres. Mahon must throw his resources with the company in an effort to keep its affiliation with the Amalgamated and will take some means of resuming traffic.

Pres. Thomas J. Powers and the executive committee of Local 280 went to Boston early this morning to go to a conference with Pres. W. D. Mahon of the International association, representatives of other locals throughout the system and officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. It was not expected that the Lowell men would return to the city until late this afternoon. A meeting of the local carmen will be held tonight to act upon whatever word is brought back by the committee. "Standing pat" is the expression of the hour from carmen and officials alike. Supt. Thomas Lees said there are no new developments. The company admits a huge loss of revenue in the local division as the result of the absence of service over the week-end. Automobile traffic in Lowell is tremendous Saturday night and yesterday it is estimated that early 1200 motor vehicles were in operation in an endeavor to keep up transportation.

The striking conductors and motormen met Saturday night and laymen believed prior to the meeting that might result in a resumption of traffic, but not so, the platform men and firm in their first contention and under no consideration would they return to their cars and operate with the Rooke register were to be on open cars, notwithstanding an order of Pres. Mahon.

MAHON THREATENS TO REVOKE CHARTERS

BOSTON, June 23.—Thousands of workers in more than a score of cities and towns served by the Eastern Massachusetts street railway, formerly the Day State street railway company, walked to their places of employment today as a result of the strike of a majority of the union carmen on the system yesterday. Automobile trucks and pleasure cars sped a harvest in some places while used automobile bus lines with extra vehicles pressed into service.

PARIS, June 23.—Activities noted today at the Paris residence of President Wilson appear to indicate that preparations were being made for the president's departure for home.

PROTESTS ARE OF NO AVAIL

PARIS, Sunday, June 23 (By the Associated Press).—The German note to which the Council of Four replied today by definitely rejecting any suggestions for an alteration in the treaty declared that the Germans regard the terms of peace as impracticable and that their signature is given under duress. Protests were made against the clauses concerning reparations, the forfeiture of colonies and others. Asserting that the terms cannot be accepted.

CORP. JAMES DANKERT REPORTED KILLED

When General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the 28th Division, stood in the aldermanic chamber at city hall in this city a few months ago on the occasion of his public reception by the citizens of Lowell, the first person to grip his hand among the men, women and children who formed the long line of relatives of Lowell boys in the Yankee Division was Miss Mary M. Dankert, a sweet faced young girl who looked into the eyes of the fighting officer appealingly and told about her brother—Corp. James H. Dankert of the 28th who had been missing since the July previous. Did the general know anything about him?

Strive as he would, the commander could not bring a word of positive assurance to the girl before him. He knew what the term "missing" indicated when nothing followed it. And

CORP. JAMES H. DANKERT

Mary had not heard a word from the war department since July. All General Edwards could do was to offer a word of consolation while several hundred people in the chamber looked on and seemed to realize the poignancy of the scene before them.

That was some time ago. Today comes the finale of that scene with the announcement that Corp. Dankert is officially reported killed. General Edwards' disinclination to offer any false assurance was borne out as being the proper thing to do by the facts recorded in the annals of the war department. Corp. Dankert will ever be missing from his home in this city.

Mrs. Mary J. Donnelly of 135 Summer street has received a telegram from the adjutant general of the war department stating that Corp. Dankert, a member of the 104th Regiment, was killed in action July 18 of last year. Corp. Dankert lived at Mrs. Donnelly's home for several years prior to entering the service when the war call came in the spring of 1917. He was a member of the old 6th Regiment and upon that organization's dissolution into the 104th Regiment, the Lowell soldier became a part of the new unit. He took part in the early American engagements and lost his life a short time after this country actually took part in the conflict. Last July there came word that he was reported missing, but nearly a year has elapsed before definite information has come of his fate.

Resident his sister, Mary of 364 Lawrence street. Corp. Dankert leaves an uncle, James A. Shanley of the high school faculty, and an aunt, Miss Mary A. Shanley, both of Lawrence street.

$100,000 Fire This Morning at the Northern Waste Company's Plant in Red Village

Fire, believed to have started from a spark generated during the installation of an electric elevator (see cut) at the top floor of the plant of the Northern Waste company at Atherton this morning and caused damage estimated at between $90,000 and $100,000. The plant is located in an old of the Newton Mfg. company building and with quantities of explosive material in such close proximity to the blaze two alarms were sounded to check the flames. The fire was discovered at 3:30 o'clock and as soon as Chief Saunders arrived he pulled a second alarm. The firemen were handicapped at first by low water pressure, but this was soon remedied when two steamers and two combination pumps were put into service.

The fire was a hard one, to fight and soon spread the whole length of the building. There was some fear at one time when it was announced that a small one-story wooden building in the rear of the mill, about 50 feet from the structure, contained 25,000 detonators or high explosives, but several men were kept on the premises and through effective work they succeeded in preventing the flames from reaching the magazine. There also was another magazine containing powder in the yard in the rear of the plant and a vigilant eye was kept on the structure for fear that a spark might ignite it.

The flames were discovered by Sam Taylor, a watchman in the employ of the Newton Mfg. Co., who saw the blaze through a window on the top floor of the building. He quickly sent in an alarm from box 818, the company's private box and a few minutes later, the firemen were on the scene, but by that time the flames had burst through the roof. Chief Saunders ordered the sounding of a second alarm, while several lines of hose were laid. The men climbed on the roof of the building, but were badly handicapped by the fact that the water pressure was too low for the streams to reach the blaze.

By this time the fire had worked its way to a point about the centre of the mill and was progressing rapidly. Steamer connections were made with a hydrant and two lines of hose laid. At the same time the Robinson combination was pressed into service and pumped water from an old cistern in the yard in the rear of the mill, two lines of hose, extending to the rear of the mill being put into action. The while combination also was hitched to a hydrant and another steamer was

SKELLS' MURDER TRIAL

Physical Condition of Accused Woman Greatly Improved Today

LAWRENCE, June 23.—The physical condition of Mrs. Bessie M. Skells (Skeels) undergoing trial for the murder of Miss Florence W. Gay of Andover, appeared to be greatly improved over what it was Saturday at the opening of the third week of the trial today.

Dr. A. O. Gettler, who testified on Saturday that as a result of his examination of the organs of Albert J. H. Wilkins, brother of the defendant, by the murder of whom she is charged had died of lead poisoning was further cross-examined by Attorney Daniel J. Daley, counsel for the defense. He said that while authorities disagree as to the amount of lead necessary to produce fatal results he was satisfied that the amount he found in the body of Wilkins was sufficient to cause death.

PLANS FOR FOURTH OF JULY PARADE

Plans for Lowell's Fourth of July parade are fast shaping up and indications point to a most successful celebration and welcome to the city's soldiers and sailors.

Invitations to attend the event and to review the parade from city hall have been sent to Gov. Calvin Coolidge, Lt. Gov. Channing Cox, Brig. Gen. Jesse F. Stevens, the adjutant general of this state; Gen. Charles H. Cole, Col. Ed. L. Logan, Col. John F. J. Herbert and mayors of all cities in this state as well as many from other states.

Senators, representatives and other officials have been invited to march on the chief marshal's staff. They will be dismissed.

Gilbert W. Hunt of the Spanish War Veterans has been appointed chief of the general staff.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson is especially anxious to have the Lowell clubs put in their best features in the parade not only to show their patriotism and pride, but also to help Chief Marshal Charles Slowe make that division one of the best in line.

ALDERMAN MURPHY HAD PLEASANT TRIP

Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy swiveled into his chair at city hall this morning after a week's absence along the Atlantic seaboard and points west. Originally, Mr. Murphy left, with the purpose in mind of attending the class reunion of his old alma mater at St. Mary's college, Emmetsburg, Md. The commissioner is a member of the class of 1893 and his classmates assembled in large numbers for their first get-together in the 26 years that they have been hitting the line on the field of life.

It was a happy occasion, so says the commissioner, and many a pleasant experience of college days was once more lived. Then the commencement exercises of the current class were being held and Mr. Murphy was made to feel at home when Sen. David I. Walsh was awarded an LL.D. degree for his good work here in Massachusetts. From Monday to Wednesday there was a series of reunions and commencement activities and the chief boss of the street department from Lowell, Mass., was kept on the job every minute.

One couldn't be near so many places of interest without visiting a few, though the commissioner when the college festivities were over and so he mapped out a nonchalant itinerary for the home-bound trip which took in Wilmington, Md., Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Baltimore, Coney Island and other points of interest, as the seashore steamer advertisements are wont to say.

Atlantic City is all that it should be, in Mr. Murphy's opinion. No matter how many people are there, it never seems crowded.

Brooklyn, N. Y., had one big attraction for him—its streets. He marveled at their width. Some of them have one section for horseback riders, another for motorcyclists, another for autoists, etc. Mr. Murphy's dream of an ideal Lowell could be realized quickly with the transfer of a few of Brooklyn's streets to this city.

Coney Island—there's the place, the commissioner says. Well may it be called the playground of America. A few novelties such as an airship, men who charge you a dollar a minute for taking you up in the air with 15 minutes the least they will consider, and a general entertainment palace where in one may hear a band, an orchestra, singing, see a moving picture show and enjoy dancing, all for 20 cents, made the trip decidedly interesting.

SHOOTING IN DRACUT

Engineer at Richardson Farm Shot—Farm Hand Held as Suspect

Abdul Harmouch, 35, of Dracut, was arrested by Officer Cullinan early this morning and booked at the police station on suspicion of assault with intent to kill upon Daniel Ashton, 675 Mammoth road, who was shot and seriously injured by an unknown assailant while at his work in the boiler room of the greenhouse of the Richardson farm, Dracut, shortly after midnight last night. Harmouch denied all knowledge of the affair to the police, but is being held pending an investigation of the shooting.

According to the story of the police Ashton was lying down in the boiler room of the greenhouse where he is employed as fireman, when someone fired a shot at him from a small calibre revolver. He jumped to his feet and as he did so a second shot was fired which struck him in the back.

A hurry call was sent for the ambulance and he was removed to the Corporation hospital where it was found that the wound, although of a serious nature, was not necessarily fatal. Officer Cullinan was called to the scene, and after hearing the injured man's story, arrested Harmouch, whom he found in bed in his quarters.

Harmouch declared that he had been in bed since 10 o'clock in the evening and knew nothing of the shooting. He was brought to the police station and booked at 3:55 a. m. on suspicion of assault with intent to kill.

Ashton is 48 years old and lives with his wife and family at 675 Mammoth road. He has been employed at the Richardson farm for the past three months. According to his statement he had an argument with Harmouch, who is also employed at the farm, a short time ago, and believed that the assault might have been the result of the ill feeling occasioned by the dispute.

She was attended by her father, Mr. Euclide Montieu, while the groom's witness was his father, Mr. Modesto Rolivert. At the close of the ceremony a brief reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 764 Moody street, and later the couple left on a honeymoon trip to Montreal, Trois Rivieres and Quebec. Upon their return they will make their home at 763 Moody street.

"NOT" LIKES NEW BRUNSWICK

Robert B. Manning, manager of the Waverly hotel, has returned from a trip to New Brunswick, having gone there with his mother, Mrs. Emma

Manning, who will spend the summer in the Province. Mr. Manning's trip to New Brunswick has resulted in the addition of another booster for that very delightful country. "I must confess," said Mr. Manning, "I was somewhat of the opinion that New Brunswick was like a great many more country places, easy-going, perhaps a little slack, and behind the times. But it didn't take the New Brunswickers long to disillusion me. I went by boat to St. John and I must say that I am not very much in love with that city.

There's an unexplainable something about it that doesn't appeal to me. I did not remain there long and in fact would not have stayed over there at all, but my mother and myself missed

the train to Sussex on account of our boat being late. But Sussex and the surrounding country are simply grand.

The farmers are more than well-to-do.

They are, extremely prosperous and hospitality reigns supreme. They have splendid homes and I never saw such baras in my life. They all have automobiles and most of them have their own electric light plants. Rather than think they have something on the

Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont

farmers. And they are so happy and contented it's a joy to be with them.

It sure is one beautiful country. The scenery is grand and there's a something in the air that makes a fellow feel good."

WELCOME HOME MEETING

meeting was to induce the soldiers and sailors to do their utmost in making the event a notable one. The men organized into an organization, which may become permanent and they elected J. A. N. Chretien as temporary pres-ernment must be held responsible for what may occur, the note concluded by saying that the Germans will sign with reservations relative to the turning over of those alleged to be guilty of crimes and also the admission of the guilt of Germany in causing the war.In replying, the council of four said:

"The allied and associated powers have considered the note of the German delegation of even date and, in view of the shortness of time remaining, feel it their duty to reply at once.
The allied and associated governments have given fullest consideration to all representations hitherto made by the German government with regard to the treaty and have replied with complete frankness. They have made such concessions as they thought it were just to make. The present note of the German delegation presents no new arguments or considerations not already examined.In replying, the Council of Four declared that the time for discussion was past and that the German representa-

It desires, however, in this solemn mo-vance any accusation of untruthfulsibility as regards the consequences which may be threatened against Germany when, as is bound to happen, the impossibility of carrying out the conditions comes to life, even though Germany's capacity to fulfill them is stretched to the utmost.

Cannot Accept Article 230

"Germany further lays the greatest emphasis on the declaration that she cannot accept Article 230 of the treaty of peace, which requires Germany to admit herself to be the sole and only author of the war, and she does not cover this article by her signature.
It consequently follows without further argument that Germany must also decline to recognize that the burden should be placed upon her on the score of the responsibility of the war which has unjustly been laid at her door."Likewise, it is equally impossible for a German to recognize it with his dignity and honor to accept and execute articles 227 to 229 by which Ger-many is required to give up to the allied and associated powers for trial, individuals among the German people, who are accused by the allied and associated powers of breach of international law and of committing acts contrary to the customs of war.

Protests Loss of Colonies

"Further the government of the German republic makes a distinct protest against the taking away of all the colonial possessions of Germany and the reasons given therefor which permanently deny to Germany fitness for colonial activity, although the contrary is clearly established, and irrefutable evidence to this effect is contained in the observations of the German peace delegation on the conditions of peace."The government of the German republic assumes that it is in accordance with the desires of the allied and associated governments that it has spoken openly both as regards what concerns its good will and also as regards its reservations. Therefore, in view of the condition of constraint into which the German people are forced by the requirements of the allies—a condition of constraint such as has never been inflicted on any people in a manner more crushing and more disastrous in its consequences—and relying on the express undertaking of the allied and associated governments
in their memorandum of June 18, 1919, the German government believes itself to be entitled to address the following modest request to the allied and associated governments in the expectation that the allied and associated governments will consider the following declaration as an integral portion of the treaty:

Sign Under Protest

"Within two years, counting from the day when the treaty is signed, the allied and associated governments will submit the present treaty to the high council of the powers as constituted by the League of Nations, according to Article 4, for the purpose of subsequent examination. Before this high council the German plenipotentiaries are to enjoy the same rights and privileges as the representatives of the other contracting powers of the present treaty. This council shall decide in regard to those conditions of the present treaty which impair the rights to self-determination of the German people and also in regard to the stipulation whereby the free economic development of Germany on a footing of equal rights is impeded.""The government of the German republic accordingly gives the declaration of its consent as required by the note of June 16, 1919, in the following form:"The government of the German republic is ready to sign the treaty of peace, without, however, recognizing thereby that the German people was the author of the war and without undertaking any responsibility for delivering persons in accordance with Ar-ticles 227 to 230 of the treaty of peace,"

BIG THREE REJECT PLEA FOR TIMEPARIS, June 23 (By the Associated Press).—Germany today requested an additional 48 hours within which to make known its decision relative to signing of the peace treaty without the reservations required by the entente. The Council of Three flatly refused the request.The request for additional time pleaded that the change in the government and the generally disturbed conditions made it difficult to complete the arrangements.The communication from the Germans was received at 3 o'clock this morning. At 9 o'clock President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau met with Premier Lloyd George at the latter's house for consideration of the note.
The character of this communication was not disclosed, however, until some time later when announcement was made that the German request had been rejected.GERMAN ASSEMBLY AGREES TO SIGNBERLIN, June 23 (By the Associated Press).—Germany will sign the peace treaty of the allied and associated powers.The national assembly yesterday afternoon by a vote of 237 to 148 decided to sign. The assembly also voted confidence in the new government of Herr Bauer, 235 to 89. Sixty-eight members abstained from voting.
On the question of signing the treaty five members of the assembly abstained from voting.

Before the vote of confidence was taken, Herr Bauer, the new premier, declared that the government would sign the treaty, but without acknowledging the responsibility of the German people for the war and without accepting the obligations contained in articles 227 to 230 in the treaty relating to the trial of the former emperor and the extradition of other German personages.OFFICIAL REPORT SAYS HUNS TO SIGNWEIMAR, Sunday, June 22.—(By the Associated Press).—It is officially announced that Germany will sign the treaty of peace.In announcing the decision of the German government to sign the peace terms before the national assembly today, Premier Bauer said:"At this hour of life and death, under the menace of invasion for the last time, I raise in free Germany a protest against this treaty of violence and destruction. I protest against this mockery of self-determination, this enslavement of the German people, this new menace to the peace of the world, under the mask of a treaty of peace. No signing can entice this protest which we raise and swear to.
This treaty does not lose its annihilating character by alterations in detail.
Protesting against it is useless and is at the risk of a new crisis within 48 hours.

Power of Resistance Broken

"Our power of resistance is broken and there is no means of averting this treaty. The treaty itself, however, does give us a handle which we cannot allow to be wrested from us, namely the entente's solemn promise of June 16 that the treaty can be revised from time to time and adapted to new conditions. That is one of the few words in the treaty breathing the real spirit of peace."

Premier Bauer concluded by expressing his faith in the German people and their final realization of a better future. He said they were faced with years of labor for the foreign account, but owed it to their descendants to hold the country together."They must safeguard our new liberty," he said. "There must be a will to work and a discipline in all rank of society. There are no miracles charms to cure a nation. Even a war revolution cannot rid us of the malady from which we are wearing away.

Only by a revolution of our moral consciousness can we succeed in raising ourselves out of our night in to a better future."The Weimar despatch carrying the official announcement that Germany would sign the peace treaty was sent at Weimar at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Apparently it referred to the decision of the German government to sign the treaty with the reservation of which it gave notice to the allied powers and which the latter rejected. This morning show that the Germans made an appeal for an additional 48 hours to make known their decisions regarding the signing of a treaty without any reservations.

HAZZARD SAYS SONG
WON MISS PUFFER

ATER, June 23.—Arthur Garfield (Honey) Hazzard, colored choreman of this town, sang his way into the heart of Miss Mabel Puffer through sentimental ballads, so he maintained yesterday to a reporter while seated at the window of his home, which fronts the rear of the small police station where his intended bride is being detained under observation.

Sentimentality was running high in "Honey's" own heart at the moment, for he was home from a fruitless six-hour vigil in front of the police station, where he hoped to obtain a glimpse of his temporarily lost one, should she desire to take a stroll with Mrs. Mary A. Sughrue, state police matron.

He stationed himself shortly after 2 o'clock beside a lamppost, directly opposite the station and in view of the stained glass window of the detention pen. At about 7 o'clock the pangs of hunger overcame "Honey's" patience and he left for his home, little realizing that his fiancée would make her appearance within the next 10 minutes.

In the family gathering at Hazzard's home were his 72-year-old mother, a highly respected woman of this town and for many years a chorister in the Ayer M. E. church; a sister, Miss Bertha, a talented reader and musician, and another sister, Mrs. Annie T. Roland, of Burlington, formerly a school teacher. It was while the members were evidencing the tracing of their ancestry 250 years back for the benefit of the reporter, pointing out the various wars in which they figured prominently, that "Honey" put in his own ability as a musician and vocalist.

For 15 years, he added, he has been singing to Miss Puffer. She first heard him sing, he said, while he was chopping wood for her. He believed he was singing at that time a popular southern song and Miss Puffer was so impressed with the melody that she asked him to sing it several times. This began the romance, according to "Honey."

Sentimental songs were their favorite ones, "Honey" asserted. Ragtime was not welcomed in Miss Puffer's home but a song to the words and music of "A Perfect Day" was typical in the couple's opinion of genuine sentimentality. For the last three years or so, said the intended groom, this song held sway in the wealthy woman's household and hardly a day passed that its melody was not repeated.

In deep contrast to the appropriateness of the song's words, "Honey" pointed out to the reporter that his arrest and that of his bride-to-be on the eve of their marriage was the "end of an imperfect day."

"When this affair is smoothed over," he added, "it will be the beginning of a perfect day."

NEW HAMPSHIRE MAN WAS OBSTREPEROUS

An unsuccessful attempt to break up the Salvation Army meeting at Jackson and Central streets last evening cost Charles H. Nutehey of Nashua, N. H., $8 in police court today. "Booze was the cause of it all," was Charlie's only defense.

It seems that Charlie dropped down from the arid regions of New Hampshire Saturday and got pretty well "ranked up." On Sunday he managed to get even more so, and shortly after 7 o'clock he broke into the "Salter" meeting and insisted upon making a speech.

Although he swore by all that was great and holy that he could unfold a tale that would make his listeners' hair stand on end, Adjutant Clark escorted him outside the crowd, and asked him to refrain from creating a disturbance.

But Charlie couldn't see it. He wanted to make that speech, and that was all there was to it. Some of the bystanders attempted to quiet him but he broke away and peeling off his coat, began swinging right hooks and left jabs in every direction, one of which landed flush on a Salvation Army man's jaw.

Right here the crowd took a hand in the affair and things looked rather dark for Charlie when Policeman Clark arrived on the scene in response to a call from Adjutant Clark. The officer rescued him from the hands of the enraged bystanders, and he was taken to the station.

Charlie admitted his guilt when called to take the stand, although he explained that he couldn't remember a thing about the affair. "My brain was in a whirl from the strong drink, Your Honor," explained Charlie. "But if they say I did it I suppose I must have, and I want to offer an apology to the Salvation Army right now."

Adjutant Clark asked the court to exercise leniency in dealing with Charlie's case, as he believed that the man was too drunk to know what he was doing. Charlie also pleaded long and earnestly for a chance to get back to New Hampshire, and was finally let down with a $8 fine.

Other Offenders

Charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and also with drunkenness, Patrick C. McCall, a doughboy stationed at Camp Devens, entered a plea of guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $20. Patrick secured an auto in some manner Saturday evening and during his little joy ride struck a woman at Merrimack and Dutton streets which resulted in his immediate arrest.

Fines of $15 each were imposed on Edward Nichols and Margaret Keely who pleaded guilty to a statutory charge.

The case of Frank J. Slagston, who was charged with assault and battery and disorderly conduct on a street car, was placed on file.

IN MEMORIAM

For Priv. William J. Molloy, who died in France June 22nd, 1918.

Car Tie-Up in Full Effect

vice, reduced the forced foot traffic somewhat.

Special meetings of the local governments were called in several cities and towns to devise means of meeting the emergency. Measures are taken for special public conveyance permits should the strike continue during the day.

In larger cities where a considerable number of workers live in the outlying districts, the loss of car service was a decided hardship.

In Lynn it was estimated that 30,000 electrical and shoe workers walked to the factories for the first time in years. Similar conditions existed in Haverhill, Lawrence, Salem, Lowell, Fall River, Quincy and many other communities.

Carmen in other localities, especially south of Boston, were expected to vote on the question of joining the strike later today.

The agitation for a general strike on the system arose from a strike of the Lowell car men a week ago. In protest against the use of hand fare registers on open cars. Affiliated unions with the exception of the Brockton district local voted sympathetically and several added a demand for revision of their working agreement. The strike was called without sanction of the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway Employees and against the advice of W. D. Mahon, president of that organization who has threatened to revoke the local union charters unless the men return by tonight.

Decide to Defect Strike

The Fall River, Brockton and Taunton divisions reported employees working their regular trips, the union men having decided to follow the advice of W. D. Mahon, president of the carmen's international union and defer strike action pending the result of his efforts to negotiate with the company today.

A conference between the joint committee of all the local unions of the Bay State system, including Newport, R. I., and Nashua, N. H., and the international office was held here under President W. D. Mahon and Vice President John H. Reardon of the international union had conferred with committees of the men representing locals that have thus far refused to join the general strike. In discussing the strike, President Mahon said: "The Bay State carmen are working under a contract which provides for arbitration. They have broken this contract and unless they follow my order to return to work, the international union will revoke their union charters."

"I know absolutely nothing of the merits of the strike. The only course for the Lowell local to have taken was to submit its dispute to its grievance committee, enter a protest with the division superintendent and failing to get redress to have appealed to the international union and if this latter medium failed, to place the entire matter in arbitration."

"When I hear from the joint committee today and learn their intentions, my work here will be done. If they persist in their determination to strike, the international union will then order their local charters void, the present wage agreement broken and all union privileges under the laws of the association revoked. I personally have no knowledge of their planned course. I will not try to effect a settlement by trying to secure any concession from the Bay State. I have ordered the men to return to work."

All regular lines were on schedule. The local carmen voted unanimously to petition President Mahon of the international union for the right to secede from the Quincy local and establish a local of their own in East Weymouth.

Outside of picketing at Quincy bridge by the Quincy car men and occasional jeers and jibes by strike sympathizers at that point, there was no unusual excitement. The East Weymouth men were operating the Quincy line only as far as the Quincy Point bridge and refused to go into the city of Quincy.

Early trips to Fore River this morning, where nearly 4000 Weymouth men work, were run only to the Weymouth boundary. Each car carried a police officer and a plain clothes guard. There was no trouble.

Tie-up in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, June 23.—Street car service was still tied up today. A meeting of the local union will be held tonight when action may be taken on the question of continuing the strike in sympathy with the demands of the employees of the Lowell division.

400 Out at Salem

SALEM, June 23.—Four hundred conductors, motormen, linemen and pitmen were involved in the strike of Eastern Massachusetts Railway carmen here today. Car traffic was at a standstill and workers had recourse to steam trams and omnibuses in going to their places of employment. There were no disturbances.

First Tie-up in 31 Years

LYNN, June 23.—The strike of eastern Massachusetts railway carmen was entirely effective in this city, forcing thousands to walk to work. For a few fortunate ones, especially employees of the General Electric Co., motor trucks, omnibuses and private cars were requisitioned. It is said to be the first time in 31 years that trolley service has been completely stopped here.

Haverhill Walks

HAVERHILL, June 23.—All service on the Haverhill division of the Bay State Street railway system is at a standstill today. Busses, commercial trucks, motorcycles and express wagons were used this morning by the thousands of shoe operatives to get to work.

CARMEN SEEK INCREASE

Hearings on Petitions Presented by Atty. Vahey Open at New York

NEW YORK, June 23.—Hearings on petitions for wage increases for street railway employees of New England were begun here today before Charleston Ogden, examiner of the war labor board. James H. Vahey of Boston, counsel for the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees of America, presented the petitions.

The employees of the Boston Elevated Railroad Co. are asking for a maximum wage rate of 75 cents an hour, as compared with the prevailing rate of 45 cents to 48 cents.

The employees of the Rhode Island Co. which operates the lines throughout that state, are making similar demand for a minimum rate of 70 cents an hour and a maximum rate of 75 cents an hour, against the prevailing rate of 45 and 48 cents.

The house of Pierre Sabourin, 1 Colvin street, Pawtucket, stands on the dividing line of two towns—Pawtucket and Attleboro—and also on the dividing line of two states, so that Mr. Sabourin sleeps with his feet in Massachusetts and his head in Rhode Island. The courts have ruled that where a man's head is when he sleeps there he lives, so that Mr. Sabourin pays all his taxes except the taxes on his real estate to Pawtucket. His real estate taxes are divided.

If you want to buy, sell or exchange anything try a Sun want adv.

And yet thousands and thousands of inexperienced young men rush every season into canoes where deep water A. B. sailormen fear to tread.

And the girls go with them—Yea, verily. You can't keep them away. If the young men were on one island and all the young girls were on another and there were no canoes or boats of any kind—Well—All the girls would learn to swim—Tom W. Jackson, in Brooklyn Standard Union.

I'm sure Resinol will heal your skin

Doctors prescribe it very widely. It also makes an excellent dressing for burns, wounds, chafings, and sore, irritated places generally.

Resinol contains nothing that could injure the tenderest skin. It is even more effective if used with Resinol Soap. All druggists sell Resinol and Resinol Soap.

WIDOW OF GEN.
DRAPER DEAD

ROME, Sunday, June 23.—Mrs. W. F. Draper, widow of Gen. Draper, American ambassador here 29 years ago, died this morning at a hotel in this city. Her daughter, Princess Roncompagni, was at the bedside when the end came.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Several young people were received into the membership of the First Presbyterian church yesterday at its morning service. The preacher was Rev. David S. Kennedy, D.D., of Philadelphia, father of the present pastor, Rev. J. E. Kennedy. The pastor emeritus, Rev. J. M. Craig took charge of the service last evening. The sermon subject in the morning was "Hearing." The service was largely attended as it was a part of the semi-centennial observance.

MUSIC IN THE EARLY MORNING HOURS

Music may have its charms to appease the tormented soul or soothe the savage breast, when employed at the right time, but 4:30 a. m. is not the psychological hour at which to attempt the experiment, declare the residents of Appleton street.

Still, there are some folks who do not take this view, for the appealing strains of "The Cootie Tickle," "I'm a Jazz Baby" and "Alcoholic Blues" are wafted through the morning zephyrs in this peaceful part of the city long before old Sol starts on his daily rounds, rudely disturbing those who are basking in the arms of Morpheus.

If it were merely some ambitious opera star of the future trying out her voice before she leaves home for office, factory or shop, they could make allowances, say the residents of Appleton street, but who in blazes wants to listen to that tenement hoodoo, a phonograph, at this unearthly hour?

"If there is an yone time during the night that I hate to be disturbed it's the morning," was the way one irate neighbor expressed himself on the subject. "And when one must listen to this infernal racket at 4:30—Ye gods, it's awful!" he finished, with a yawn bespeaking the extent to which the early morning serenades have played upon his frayed nerves.

The offending family seems to be of the opinion that the neighbors enjoy this morning opera, which in their minds is a triumphant march played for the benefit of the milkmen. They open the windows to allow the full glory of the alleged music to burst forth upon the outside world and the echoes resound from all the adjoining houses. Peculiarly, the accompanying echoes are not of music but of groans, cat calls and just plain honest-to-goodness cuss words.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say of the current attractions and of others to come:

THE STRAND

All up for the pony contest! Today marks the beginning of the contest in which the winner—the most popular boy or girl of Lowell and suburbs, will be awarded a handsome Shetland pony and riding outfit. Every purchaser of a ticket will receive a coupon and the boy or girl receiving the largest number will be given, absolutely free, this wonderful gift. Already several youngsters have entered by giving their names at the box office, and their friends are out hustling them in for them in every line in for them in every line. There's room for many more contestants. The affair is open to all and the more in it the more interesting it will be for all. Get it, move on quick and don't let the other boy or girl get the start on you.
The program for the first three days of the week will include the usual high grade photoplays of the first run variety, such as Pauline Frederick, the magnetic star of the film world, in her latest picturization, "The Poor Woman," a wonderfully good dramatic effort. Bessie Love, the fascinating little star in "Little Boss," will appear as the little lumberjack of the backwoods. It's a great story with wonderful scenery and exceptional scenic effects and photoplay. The remainder of the bill will have a good comedy and the latest Universal Weekly, and Miss Margaret McDonough, Lowell's nightingale, will be the week's soloist. Don't forget that 10 cents sees it all and that the Strand is the "coolest spot in town."

What Kind of Fire Protection Have You?

THINK of the comfort that is yours when you know that with a good fire extinguisher in your home your loved ones are safe. Coburn's fire extinguishers are light and easily handled.

THEN AGAIN, in your office are valuable documents and furnishings. No matter how much insurance you carry, these cannot always be replaced.

THINK OF THE SECURITY you, as a property owner, will feel in knowing that your property is protected from loss by fire. Why not install good fire extinguishers in the hallways of your buildings? The occupants or watchman can put out fire with one of these in an instant.

GET CIRCULATION FOR ADS

"Why should I pay one paper more than another for the same amount of space? They're both probably good papers and they both have about the same amount of circulation, don't they?"

A question like this is often asked a newspaper's advertising department and it has to be answered with patience and in detail. This question, if asked sincerely, shows the questioner does not know one of the great fundamentals of the publishing business.

It is circulation. After you've done the best you could getting the news, editing it and printing it, it is still up to the management of the paper to see that it is widely distributed. The reason why one paper may be entitled to a dollar an inch for its space and the other paper in a town entitled to only fifty cents is as plain as that it costs more to get five men to peddle circulars than it does one.

Circulation is the thing that counts. The more circulation a paper gives your ad, the greater the distribution among people who will read your ad and come down town and buy what you are selling. Be sure you get the circulation you think you're paying for. Circulation is the thing that counts and that fact was never more self-evident than in the case of

AVIATION POSSIBILITIES

The sum of $50,000 has been offered as a prize to the aviator who will be first to fly across the Pacific ocean. That, we take it, is not to be a non-stop flight, as the time limit is set at 18 days. This feat will be performed in due time and the next to be undertaken will be to fly around the world. That, too, will be achieved. Aviation is only in its infancy, but experts now assert that for practical purposes, some form of machine more stable than the ordinary airplane is necessary. The dirigible has the safety but not the necessary speed. In due time, however, it is quite probable that an airplane will be produced that will combine the qualities of safety and speed so as to make it more applicable to commercial purposes.

HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

With reference to the new high school, it may be well for the school board to take into account the action of other cities in regard to high school accommodations. The city of Springfield has a fine technical high school, and now the city of Worcester is about to establish a similar school. The Worcester school board has also decided in favor of a junior high school to be distinct from the classical high. This is in line with the suggestions recently offered by The Sun as to the needs of a junior and senior high school in this city. A technical high school would offer great advantages to the young people of our city in getting started in the direction of mechanical occupations. It may be said that the Lowell Textile school offers sufficient opportunities in this direction, but that has developed into a textile university which is run more as a college than as a free public school.

ANTI TOBACCO CAMPAIGN

Out in Pennsylvania, a movement has been started to prohibit the production and sale of tobacco in every form. A company has just been refused a charter under the title of a "No Tobacco Corporation," its object being "to secure by law a prohibition of the culture, sale and use of tobacco." The presiding judge decided that the aims of the corporation are altogether outside the range of public service in which the state should take part. This, however, is not likely to stop the campaign against the use of tobacco. There is such a thing as carrying such reforms to unnecessary extremes and thus defeating those that are absolutely necessary. The parties entering this campaign would show better judgment by waiting to see how the prohibition law will work throughout the country.

WORK FOR BOYS

Last year, there were various organizations for distributing high school graduates and others who wanted work, among the employers who needed help. This year, it seems that the graduates will have to shift for themselves in finding employment, with the number of jobs very much less than last year.

Some of the graduates do not need work and can enjoy the vacation months either at home or at some popular resort; but others do need the work and judging from the present outlook, they will have difficulty in finding much to do during the summer. It seems there should be some employment bureau to receive applications for young men and thus assist them in getting work. Many of the high school boys will derive much physical benefit from work in the open fields during the vacation, and if they get a chance to work on a farm they should promptly accept it as a privilege which city folks seldom enjoy.

THE CAR STRIKE

There could be no better illustration of the necessity of a compulsory arbitration law to settle all disputes that cause a suspension of the operation of public service corporations than the present strike on the Eastern Massachusetts street Railway system.

The issue involved is one that should have been submitted to an arbitration board without any interruption of the service. Had that course been adopted, the result would have been better for all concerned and there would have been no charges of broken agreements, no appeals for sympathy to parties who are not competent to decide the issue and no loss or suffering to the public.

The question raised is one for arbitration pure and simple, and as the strike is in violation of an existing arbitration agreement and without the approval of the international union officials, it seems that these officials, in conjunction with the trustees of the company, should take steps to have the dispute settled at the earliest possible moment.

The public has already suffered great loss and inconvenience and is now becoming impatient under the hardships resulting from the strike, the extension of which to other cities makes its effects still more serious.

THE INTER-RACIAL COUNCIL

What is known as an "Inter-racial Council" has been formed in New York for the purpose of spreading American ideals and American standards among the racial groups in the United States wherever possible. The council is to work chiefly among the aliens employed in American industries, confident that by improving the working conditions of these foreigners and helping them to a higher plane of existence, it will thereby make them better Americans. This council represents some of the leading industries of the country and is certainly a formidable body so far as resources are concerned. It is planned to work largely through the foreign language press of the country exclusive of German, seeking to reach the various nationalities in terms they can understand. With this purpose in view, the council has secured control of many of the foreign language newspapers, and these in the future will be used to assist in promoting American ideals and pointing out the dangers of radicalism. Heretofore, many of these papers have been used for the purpose of spreading the brand of propaganda preached by the I.W.W., the socialists and Bolsheviks. There is little doubt that this organization can accomplish much good in its co-operation with other organizations working for a like purpose along different educational lines.

SCHOOL GRADUATIONS

Perhaps it is too late now to offer a suggestion as to the propriety of making school graduations as inexpensive as possible to the parents of the pupils. Doubtless the teachers have used their influence in this direction to prevent any needless display of dress at the high school graduation. With the present high price of every fabric needed in women's wardrobe, it would be a real hardship to some families to dress up a young lady in accordance with the latest fashions and the whims of the period for school commencement occasions. There has always been needless display at some of the school graduations, but anything of the kind would be very much out of place this year owing to the high cost of living and the fact that we have just been through a terrible war that brought severe conditions on those who remained at home as well as those who entered the service of the government. The school departments of some cities have wisely arranged for gingham dresses at the graduation exercises. Something of the kind should be done in every city; but it has not been suggested here and there is no time now to change the program.

FIGHTING THE LEAGUE

One of the ways by which United States senators abuse the franking privilege and pile up expenses upon the government is by ordering speeches and documents of a miscellaneous character printed in the Congressional Record and then mailing copies broadcast throughout the country.

But recently, the alleged copy of the peace treaty was so printed and the next move is to send out copies of the text far and wide under the frank of some senator opposed to the League of Nations.

At the present time, Senator Reed of Missouri is sending out a part of the record containing a printed speech delivered by Judge Valkenberg before the Kansas City Bar association last May, in reference to the League of Nations. This able jurist is evidently opposed to the league and judging from the elaborate way in which he treats the whole subject, his speech appears to be that of a paid advocate rather than a citizen entering a protest from patriotic motives.

Moreover, if names indicate anything, it would seem that Judge Valkenberg's sympathies may not be wholly American. Still, his arguments appear to be framed in the interest of the United States alone; but he overlooks the one great reason why not only this republic, but every other civilized nation should hold fast to the League of Nations as offering the only safeguard against future wars even more terrible than that which has spread ruin and disaster all over Europe.

Even the generals who fought during the war dreaded the campaign of 1919, when it appeared the war might be prolonged. They were afraid of the bacilli the Germans might spread among the allied forces and they felt that it might be necessary to apply some of the all powerful explosives and the new destructive gases developed in the United States.

Against the use of such devastating agencies by the various powers, and the resumption of the old method of competitive armaments and the balance of power with the certainty of future wars, the League of Nations alone can offer a remedy acceptable to all nations.

Without some such mode of preventing war, all Europe will lapse into a state of chaos and this nation cannot escape sharing the general ruin.

Moreover, there can be no League of Nations without the United States being one of the leading powers. Therefore, to withdraw, as republicans propose, would be to leave civilization itself in jeopardy.

This is the goal towards which Lodge and Borah and Reed and Brandegee and Penrose are moving in the senate. It is to bolster up their position they get the speeches of Judge Valkenberg and others printed in the record and distributed throughout the land at the public expense.

Why should this form of propaganda be tolerated since it is conducted entirely at the government expense?

Daylight savings will not be enforced by law after October, but this is a matter in which the people are not restricted. They can save their daylight as freely as ever by getting up earlier in the morning and retiring earlier at night. It has been very pleasant to have a few hours' daylight after a day's work, but the change in the law will make that impossible. Those who want to save daylight in the future will have to do so in the early morning, which is the most delicious part of the day.

Cablegrams from China are not to cost so much in the future. The price from San Francisco has been reduced from $1.10 a word to 88 cents. This makes considerable difference, particularly with a people who speak in monosyllables.

SEEN AND HEARD

How did you enjoy your electric car ride yesterday? Such a nice day to be outdoors, too!

All the air being saved by the abandonment of the car brake is going into automobile tires.

More shoes will be tapped in Lowell this week than ever before in the life of the city.

Five cents for a doughnut and the restaurateur doesn't care whether you eat the hole or leave it.

With a police officer directing traffic in Westford street and a watchful eye looking over Prescott street, automobile regulations are on the mend.

With a basket of strawberries retailing for 33 cents, how can a restaurateur man have the nerve to charge 30 cents for an order of strawberry shortcake?

The guys who try to butt in and write stuff for this column make me tired. They don't seem to realize that it requires a college professor of years' standing to turn out the classics appearing here. I should say not.

After July 1 ice dealers, no doubt, may increase the price "due to the shortage of ice, caused by the shortage of water, brought about by so many folks riding on the water wagon." Oh, well, one excuse is as good as another.

When the bureau of war risk insurance received a communication with reference to Charles R. Flivver of Tusamaha, Ala., a search was made for his name on the records. One bright clerk finally located it. Charles R. Ford, of Tusamaha.

Franklin's Toast

Perhaps in the effort to determine the relative validity of the voices of the nations round the peace table the old story of Franklin may appropriately be told once more.

A guest at dinner when the great Philadelphia was present said: "We have three nationalities here: Mr. Franklin is American; here is an Englishman; I am a Frenchman; let us each propose a toast."

The Englishman said: "Here's to Great Britain, the sun that gives light to all the nations of the earth."

The Frenchman said: "Here's to France, the moon whose magic rays move the tides of the world."

Franklin had the last word: "Here's to George Washington, the Joshua who commanded the sun and moon to stand still, and they obeyed."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

No Chance to Flirt

Married women on the north coast of Africa don't flirt. According to Miss Olive Tarbell of West Groton, back from service overseas with the Red Cross, they can't, the reason being that you can't tell a married woman a black away by her dress—Miss Tarbell spent five days on the north coast of Africa while her ship was coaling, and in a short trip an Arab sheik offered to buy her for a wife at 200 francs.

"Before a Moroccan woman is married," Miss Tarbell says, "she wears a veil over her face, with one eye exposed. Her ankles are tattooed in brilliant colors. After marriage she still wears the veil, but is allowed to show both eyes. Her heels are then tattooed to match her ankles, and she wears little flat half-slippers, to show them off, proclaiming to all the world that she is a married woman."

And Georgia Is Dry

G. W. Robbins was working in his garden in Atlanta, Ga., pulling some radishes the other evening when he discovered a six-foot coachwhip snake watching him. Robbins quit pulling radishes and beat it. But the beating wasn't good just then. The coachwhip chased him. Robbins ran out an extra ounce of steam and ran faster. The snake speeded up. The chase ended near the barn where Robbins was forced to pause for breath. The snake also was shy of wind and crawled under the barn to rest up for a fresh start. Robbins, encouraged by this maneuver and angered at the damage already done his radishes, grasped the snake by the tail and dragged it out. Instantly the coachwhip changed tactics, and leaped itself about Robbins' neck. Business picked up at once, and the warm summer atmosphere was shattered by rude exclamations of the rough-and-ready variety. The coachwhip had a combination grapevine and head hold on Robbins, who was striving to achieve the deadly toe-hold made famous by Wrestler Gatch. The radish bed was used as a mat, and the grapple was fast and furious. It is a difficult matter to put a toe-hold on a large and scientific snake, but Robbins was battling for his life and a few remaining radishes—and he got the hold. The first thing he did was to unwrap the coachwhip from his neck. Then he violated all wrestling rules and regulations, the constitution of the United States, and the laws laid down by the marquis of Queensberry. Robbins deliberately and with malice aforethought popped his late adversary's head against the side of the barn. The battle ended there. G. W. Robbins is coachwhip wrestling champion of Georgia. Now then, if you know a better snake story than that, send it in.

Mustangs on Natural History

For birds I entertain a care; I like the way they take the air; Their singing soothes my inner ear, And I am pleased when they appear. In crimson feathering and blue; In short, I think that birds will do— But they eat worms, which proves, I'm sure, Their taste is far from epicure.

SQUIRRELS

I quite approve of squirrels, I think, Although I'd much prefer them pink; Their teeth are sharp, their fur is soft, And nibbly they can ship a lot. But I can't understand why they Should chew on hard-shelled nuts all day.

When they could find much softer eats, Like pease, bananas, soup and beats.

WORMS

I would not for a single term Agree to underwrite the worm; The way he rises after rains Is proof to me he has no brains. For he is stopped on his flight, Which must be quite distressing, quite; Another reason why, I think, The garden worms are so glib, His chassis is assembled wrong And his wheelbase it is much too long.

PEOPLE

People are nice, but then I fear There are too many people here; When one would watch a function gay They're always staring in your way; And when in need of much repose They park themselves upon your toes. I think they're ordinary, too, And that includes myself, too. —J. P. McEvoy, in Chicago Tribune.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Naturally there is absorbing interest among Lowell druggists and the public generally in the announcement that Frank J. Campbell, the well known local pharmacist, is one of those endorsed by the Massachusetts Pharmaceutical association for appointment to the state board of pharmacy. The appointing power lies with the governor and it is said that there is to be some hustling done to put Mr. Campbell on the board. It is some time since Lowell had a representative on the state board and local pride makes one feel that there should be a representative from this city on such an important body. The recommendation of the Day Street druggists that Mr. Campbell be selected is concurred in heartily by Lowell people who know Mr. Campbell as a capable exponent of his art.

FLAG EXERCISES AT ST. ANNE'S CHURCH

The service flag of St. Anne's Episcopal church, bearing 55 stars, three of them of sacrificial gold, was demobilized yesterday morning at the usual church service. The demobilization ceremony was deeply religious and inspiring as gold bars were planned over the stars of service. The speaker was Chaplain J. T. Addison of the gas division in France. He urged a full participation in world affairs, a giving of power and ideals to the world and warned against politicians who seek to maintain the old order of things. In part, he said:

"If I know the American soldier and sailor at all he is not happiest when he is being praised or paraded. Comradeship is the highest tribute we can pay to these men. We must learn from their example, and with their help, we must carry on our work."

"The cause of the American army was a noble and world-wide one. It had tasks full of difficulty and grave risk. If we have a cause it, too, must be noble and world-wide, and it is bound to be full of difficulty and grave risk. The men of our army and navy, in common with our allies, tackled big things, and that is how they won."

"Democracy will not look after itself; it must be jealously guarded. Today we have just about reached two-thirds democracy in our government. We must make it 100 per cent, a truly popular government. It must be responsive to the popular will. It must know justice that is clear, infinite concern for the weak and oppressed."

"Industrially we have got to about 10 per cent democracy. The system of modern capitalism and of modern wages may suit those made comfortable by it. It is a system of competition at all costs and may the toughest win. That is Prussianism. We must all work for one end. Some say that is impossible, but this is an age of impossible things. Two million men in France was an impossible thing; winning the war was an impossible thing—to some, Imperialism and autocracy are nearly gone. But the lust for power among the nations is not dead yet. At present there are 12 wars going on in Europe, but, with all our faults, we are not crowding for more territory, for spoils."

CAMP EUKA READY FOR SUMMER USE

Camp Euka, the summer home of the Lowell Young Women's Christian association on the banks of the Merrimack river, has been thoroughly renovated and spruced up for the season which will continue in full swing during the months of July and August. Any girl who wishes rest and healthful recreation, whether for a week-end or a month may find it there and the association officers are only too glad to explain the camp plans to prospective sojourners. Miss Florence Foster is to be the recreation leader during July and Miss Maybelle Burner in August. A weekly "bacon bat" and a community slug will be features and one night each week will be given over to dramatics. Younger girls' week is from July 7 to 14 and the week for high school girls from the 14th to the 21st.

The members' council of the Y.W.C.A. of which Miss June Sleeper is the chairman, at their meeting Thursday evening, voted to join the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, which is to be completed at St. Louis in August.

HELD ANNUAL PICNIC

The street car tie-up didn't prevent the young folks of the First Baptist church from holding their annual picnic at the Y.M.C.A. camp at Nabnabos on Saturday, and one of the largest crowds on record made the trip to the grounds by auto truck during the early hours of the day. A fine program of athletic events was enjoyed during the afternoon, and the return trip was made without incident early in the evening.

LOWELL HALF A GAME BEHIND LEWISTON

Lowell moved up to within half a game of Lewiston Saturday when Fitchburg was defeated, 7 to 2. If Lowell wins the next game with Lewiston losing the local team will go into the lead. Clark was in fine form Saturday and held Fitchburg to six hits, while Boyce, greatly overworked, was hit often and opportunely. Lowell again played errorless ball and gave Bob sensational support. Fitchburg blew up in the eighth inning when Hayden's team got six runs. The score:

OFFER $30,000 FOR LEONARD-TENDLER GO

Benny Leonard and Lew Tandler have been offered a $30,000 purse for a six-round bout in Philadelphia. Billy Gibson, manager of the champion, says that he will go through with the match, but that Tandler will have to let him name the weight. Tandler is not likely to let him do so and will be $10,000 on the side. He may box Leonard for the purse alone, however, and let Benny Smith fight him. Bill Brennan, Benny's manager, met Wednesday night in St. Louis, while on Saturday of this week Jack Britton will box J. Ferry at Cumberland, Md.

Protests Fail—Huns To Sign

ward M. House and General Tasker H. Bliss.

Georges Clemenceau, premier of France, was chairman of the peace conference.

At first a supreme council or a council of ten was organized so as to include two representatives each from Great Britain, France, the United States, Italy and Japan. Subsequently this council was divided in two parts—a council of four, composed of President Wilson and Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando; and a council of foreign ministers.

The conference of the allied delegations convened officially on January 15 to draw up the terms to be submitted when completed to the German delegation. President Wilson had arrived in France on December 13 and had visited England, Italy and parts of France.

One of the first acts of the conference was to send a proposal to all Russian factions to meet on the Prince's Islands to endeavor to compose the Russian internal situation but this plan was rejected by the Russians. Various factions which were disputing over territory in different sections of Europe were directed by the peace conference to discontinue their conflicts.

The first step toward the actual drafting of the treaty occurred on January 24 when the conference agreed to the plan for organization of a league of nations and a committee was appointed to draw up a covenant. By January 30 the conference had adopted the plan of governing colonies and backward nations through mandates issued to various nations, subject to the direction and approval of the League of Nations.

The covenant of the League of Nations was completed on February 14. On the following day President Wilson left France for the United States. He returned to France, arriving there March 13. In his absence the council of ten had continued its work despite an attempt to assassinate Premier Clemenceau.

A report of the international labor legislation committee was adopted April 11. Reparation demands to be made on Germany were approved April 14 and the Germans were invited on April 16 to send their delegation to Versailles to receive the treaty. The peace conference next considered the treaty with Austria. The Italian delegation insisted upon obtaining control of the formerly Austrian city of Fiume but on April 23 President Wilson gave out a statement that Fiume could not be given to Italy. On the next day Premier Orlando returned to Rome and for more than a week thereafter the Italian delegates were absent but returned on May 7 in time to participate in the conference with the German delegates.

A revised covenant of the League of Nations intended to conform in respect to the Monroe Doctrine to objection raised in America was adopted by the peace conference on April 28. Geneva was selected as the seat of the league.

Shantung was disposed of on April 30 when the council of three voted to turn it over to the Japanese on assurances that it would be given later to the Chinese.

The Germans, headed by Count Brockdorff-Rantzau, arrived in Versailles and presented their credentials to the allied delegates on May 1.

The peace treaty was presented to the Germans at Versailles on May 7, the anniversary of the sinking of the Lusitania, and an official summary of the treaty was made public that day. It was also announced that the United States and Great Britain had pledged aid to France against possible future German aggression. The manner in which the Germans received the treaty was described as insolent. Numerous German leaders declared they would not sign it and a week of mourning was decreed by the German government but the decree was virtually unheeded.

Thereafter the German delegates submitted various notes to the council or four asking for concessions or certifying the terms proposed in the treaty as submitted to them. On May 17 it was announced that the German treaty would become effective when ratified by Germany and three of the allied or associated powers.

The German reply to the first form of the peace treaty was presented to the allied delegates on May 25 and this was followed by several German counter-proposals.

Meanwhile the Austrian delegates had arrived at St. Germain and on June 2 the terms of the peace treaty with Austria as drawn by the allies were submitted to them.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

A very pretty party in the form of a miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Julia Cronin, Friday evening, at the home of Miss Mae Moriarty in Lawrence street, by her girl friends. The party came to a close at a seasonable hour wishing the bride-to-be much happiness in her married life.

RED SOX HAVE NO LUCK ON SUNDAY

The Red Sox spent the week-end in New York and lost a ball game to the Yankees yesterday afternoon at the Polo grounds, 6 to 2. Shore pitched against his former cronies and let them down with five hits, while Jones and James were batted hard. Lewis and Peckinpaugh both had perfect batting averages. Philadelphia hit three Washington pitchers at will, winning 5 to 4. Detroit nipped Chicago, 5 to 4, and Sothoron pitched shut-out ball against Cleveland, score 5 to 0.

Weaver Leads Lowell Hitters

With Average of .344—

Team Going Well

Although falling off 27 points last week Weaver, first baseman, still leads the Lowell club in batting with a mark of .344. He has collected 19 hits out of 55 trips to the plate and has scored ten runs. Sullivan ethically stands in second place with an average of .338, but Mike Hayden, who has played in many more games is a real runner-up with his mark of .313. As a team the batting mark went down some last week, but the boys are sticking very well and show a satisfactory group of averages for this time of the year.

Taking an average of the batting of five pitchers and adding with the marks of the regular eight players, a team average of .279 is found. The individual marks follow:

Player	AB	R	H	Ave.
Weaver	55	19	19	.344
Sullivan	57	9	19	.338
Hayden	67	9	21	.313

EXPERT FINDS THAT JESS IS A BIG MAN

This is the first of a series of articles on the Willard-Dempsey fracas written by the flashy author of "Short Cuts to Success for Barbers," and "Why Whales Carry Their Own Show-er-baths."

TOLEDO, O., June 23.—From the dope I gather in the papers for the last quarter of months, there's going to be a fist-pillow tossing contest between either Willard and Dempsey, or both, on or about July 4th, somewhere in the vicinity of Toledo. Being a slave for facts, I found out that Willard is the champion and Dempsey the challenger. After watching Willard work out, I want to impress upon the minds of my customers an important point that most sport chauffeurs overlook. Willard is a big man! When asked for a statement regarding his chances in the possible encounter Willard whispered to me, "The report that I cut my own hair is without foundation! Also, since winning the title I have been said of me that I drink coffee out of a saucer. That, too, is untrue. I only drink tea!" Tomorrow I will tell you some more first hand tips that will play a big part in the placing of bets on the outcome of the fight.

TWO BARRACKS BURNED AT CAMP DEVENS

CAMP DEVENS, June 23.—Two barracks buildings in the demobilization area were destroyed by fire about 7 o'clock Saturday night, and one of the biggest scares they have ever experienced at the camp was thrown into officers here, for it was feared that the flames would spread through the flimsy wooden buildings and develop into a conflagration. Only quick and efficient work of the cantonment fire department, led by Lieut. James Harrington of Boston, prevented this.

Just how the fire started has not yet been determined. A board of officers will be appointed to ascertain the origin of the blaze. Officers believe that contact between two electric light wires from which the insulation had been worn off started the fire.

Fortunately the barracks were unoccupied. Troops moved out of the buildings only 48 hours before. The buildings destroyed were located in what was the 301st Field Artillery area when the 76th Division was here and what was later the development battalion area. The buildings are used by troops who come here for discharge.

As soon as the blaze was discovered an alarm was sounded and though there is a fire station within a few hundred feet of the buildings, and the modern motor apparatus responded promptly, the flames had gained such headway it was impossible to save the buildings. Within half an hour of the time the alarm was sounded the danger of the flames spreading had been averted.

The peace conference on April 28. Geneva was selected as the seat of the league.

Shantung was disposed of on April 30 when the council of three voted to turn it over to the Japanese on assurances that it would be given later to the Chinese.

The Germans, headed by Count Brockdorff-Rantzau, arrived in Versailles and presented their credentials to the allied delegates on May 1.

The peace treaty was presented to the Germans at Versailles on May 7, the anniversary of the sinking of the Lusitania, and an official summary of the treaty was made public that day. It was also announced that the United States and Great Britain had pledged aid to France against possible future German aggression. The manner in which the Germans received the treaty was described as insolent. Numerous German leaders declared they would not sign it and a week of mourning was decreed by the German government but the decree was virtually unheeded.

Thereafter the German delegates submitted various notes to the council or four asking for concessions or certifying the terms proposed in the treaty as submitted to them. On May 17 it was announced that the German treaty would become effective when ratified by Germany and three of the allied or associated powers.

The German reply to the first form of the peace treaty was presented to the allied delegates on May 25 and this was followed by several German counter-proposals.

Meanwhile the Austrian delegates had arrived at St. Germain and on June 2 the terms of the peace treaty with Austria as drawn by the allies were submitted to them.

ATTENTION CALLED TO IMPORTANT LAW

One of the most important laws ever enacted which affects the employment of boys under 16 years of age and women of any age and which has particular application to this city was passed by the Massachusetts legislature during its current session and William F. Thornton, chief attendance officer of the school department, is anxious to have local employers become acquainted with it, especially at the present time when the school vacation season is beginning.

The act in question provides that no child under 16 and no woman shall be employed in any mercantile or mechanical establishment more than 9 hours in any one day and not more than 45 hours in any one week. This act goes into effect July 23. At the present time the people specified in the new act are allowed to work as long as 54 hours a week.

Mr. Thornton says that the new law will revolutionize local stores, as most of them employ their clerks more than 48 hours a week. The act will mean that the employers will have to regulate the system of hours so that the terms of the act will be lived up to. The logical method will be to have clerks come in later in the morning.

The closing of the schools has brought the annual busy season to the attendance office of the school department at city hall. School children are getting ready to work during the summer vacation and others who have finished or are about to finish their school career are making ready to take up permanent employment. Practically all of them will have to pay a visit to the attendance office.

According to Mr. Thornton, the majority of those affected by the "labor laws" are between 14 and 16, although the laws also apply in certain instances to children until they become 21 years old. The modus operandi for a child who wishes to go to work permanently is a simple one if followed out according to directions furnished the teachers in the various schools.

No one under 14 years of age will be given a working certificate. Those who are 14 or older who wish to work permanently must fill out a school certificate which may be obtained at the school they are now attending. This certificate must show that the child in question has had at least 100 days schooling since his or her thirteenth birthday. If the child is to work only for a few months, this is not necessary.

The second document to be filled out is also obtainable at all the local public and parochial schools. It is called the "promise of employment" and is filled out by the firm or individual about to employ the child. It states what kind of work the child is to do and what the hours are to be. The law provides that children shall not work after 6 p. m. nor more than eight hours a day if they are between 14 and 16. This certificate must be examined and signed by a school or family physician stating that the child in question is capable of doing the work specified on the card.

The third essential is a copy of the child's birth certificate. If he or she were born in Lowell, it may be obtained at the office of the city clerk at city hall. If not, it must be sent away for.

The school attendance office where working papers are issued is on the third floor of city hall and is open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

used to increase the pressure of the hydrants, with the result that within a very short time eight lines of hose were playing on the building.

The ell portion of the building was equipped with a sprinkler system with two large water tanks on the roof of the structure as reservoirs, but shortly after the fire got well started the tanks caught fire and burned. Eight lines of hose were kept busy throwing tons of water into the building from two sides, but no headway was being made, for the top floor of the building was filled with cotton bales and when the firemen seemed to get the better of the blaze at one point, it broke out anew in another place. It was impossible for anyone to enter the structure as volumes of thick black smoke poured from the windows and the interior was a mass of flames.

When the blaze burst through the roof the firemen climbed over and through the opening and poured in heavy streams of water. Two charged cables extending from a pole in the yard to the building gave the firemen considerable trouble and some of them received minor shocks. The Lowell Electric Light Corp. was notified and shortly afterward one of the trouble-makers of the corporation was sent to the scene. He climbed the pole and cut the cables. Just then the pole, which was heavily loaded with cross bars, swayed to one side and it was feared that the man would be thrown to the ground. The pole swayed the other way, however, snapped off but fortunately for the man on top of it, it rested against the building.

The major portion of the work of the firemen was in the rear of the building, for the flames were being fanned in the direction of the small wooden building in which the detonators were stored. After about two hours of hard work the fire was under control and was not allowed to spread from the top story of the building. Later the men were able to enter the structure and work from the inside. Bales of cotton were rolled to the windows and thrown out of the building and this afforded the firemen a better chance to work. The fire was entirely under control shortly before 11 o'clock, but it is expected that a few firemen will have to remain on the job for some time in case it should start up again.

In the yard in the rear of the building is located a small powder magazine which contained hundreds of pounds of powder, stored there by the Newton Mfg. Co., pending orders from the United States government to remove it. Special attention was given the magazine during the fire, although it was located some distance from the burning building.

Several police officers in charge of Lieut. Connor were on duty during the fire and kept the crowd away from the building.

The building is owned by Edward Cawley and was leased to the Newton Mfg. Co., which in turn sub-leased the ell portion to the Northern Waste Co., a Boston concern, which deals in cotton waste. The waste, which is the products of various local and out-of-town mills is brought to the factory and after it is sorted, it is baled and shipped away. This morning's fire was in the storage department, which covers the entire top floor. On the floors below were machinery of the Northern Waste Co., as well as machinery owned by the Newton Mfg. Co., which was stored there. All of the machinery was more or less damaged by water.

One of the officials of the Northern Waste Co. stated this morning that waste to the value of between $50,000 and $100,000 was stored on the premises and he presumed it was completely destroyed. He stated, however, that the company carried some insurance on its stock. The building also suffered great damage, but Mr. Cawley was not in a position this morning to state just what his loss would be, although he stated that there was some insurance on the structure. Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building. A similar fire, but not as disastrous, occurred in the same building a year ago last September.

$12,500,000 MERGER OF WIRE CONCERN

WORCESTER, June 23.—The Wright Wire company and the Morgan Spring company, both of Worcester, and the Clinton Wire Cloth company, with an office in Boston and plant in Clinton, Mass., have consolidated under the name of the Clinton-Wright Wire company, a Massachusetts corporation, capitalized at $12,500,000.

Ex-Mayor George M. Wright, president of the Wright Wire company, is chairman of the board of directors, and Evan K. Jones, treasurer and general manager of the Morgan Spring company, is president and general manager.

It was organized through Liggett & Drexel, members of the New York Stock exchange. The new company will employ about 3000 and will have a tonnage of about 60,000 tons of wire rods annually.

MAKE AMERICANS DRY IN ALL PARTS OF WORLD

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The extremes to which the "drys" are going in their campaign is well illustrated by a petition offered in the house by Representative Thompson of Colorado, which, if passed, would prohibit an American citizen in any part of the world from taking a drink. It asks for the enactment of a law requiring the extension of prohibition to American residents of foreign countries with which we have treaties.

Such an amendment would, for instance, prevent an American tourist from getting a drink in Bermuda or Jamaica, which are under the English flag.

Mahon Orders Carmen to Return to Work

Germany Accepts Allied Terms

Agrees to Sign Unconditionally

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS, June 23.—The German government at Weimar has formally communicated its willingness to sign the peace terms unconditionally, it was announced by the French foreign office this afternoon. The day and hour for the formal signing of the treaty is uncertain. The signing possibly may take place Tuesday, but more likely Wednesday.

The Italian delegates at present in Paris have been authorized to sign the treaty on behalf of Italy. This announcement removed one question, which, it was feared, might delay the signing. The German note of acceptance, it is said, is couched in such language that it maintains the German position that the peace conditions are a "peace of violence."

Mahon Declares Carmen Must End Strike Tonight or Forfeit Their Charters

CAR TIE-UP STILL IN FULL EFFECT

Local Union Men Attend Another Conference With Pres. Mahon in Boston

Drastic Steps Must Follow Refusal of Carmen to Return to Work

Lowell enters her second week without electric street car service with no change in the local situation; other than an intimation from several authoritative sources that some drastic measures must soon be employed to bring about a resumption of the car traffic. It is said that if the carmen refuse to abide by the order of Pres. Mahon to return to work pending arbitration, the international body will declare all local charters void, which means an absolute break with the parent organization. If this happens, Pres. Mahon must throw his resources with the company in an effort to keep the system and officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. It was not expected that the Lowell men would return to the city until late this afternoon. A meeting of the local carmen will be held tonight to act upon whatever word is brought back by the committee.

"Standing pat" is the expression of the hour from carmen and officials alike. Supt. Thomas Lees said there were no new developments. The company admits a huge loss of revenue in the local division as the result of the absence of service over the weekend. Automobile traffic in Lowell was tremendous Saturday night and yesterday and it is estimated that nearly 1200 motor vehicles were in operation in an endeavor to keep up transportation. The striking conductors and motormen met Saturday night and laymen had believed prior to the meeting that it might result in a resumption of traffic, but not so. The platform men standing firm in their first contention that under no consideration would they return to their cars and operate them if the Rooker register were to be used on open cars, notwithstanding the order of Pres. Mahon.

MAHON THREATENS TO REVOKE CHARTERS

BOSTON, June 23.—Thousands of workers in more than a score of cities and towns served by the Eastern Massachusetts street railway, formerly the Bay State street railway company, walked to their places of employment today as a result of the strike of a majority of the union carmen on the system yesterday. Automobile trucks and pleasure cars reaped a harvest in some places while licensed automobile bus lines with many extra vehicles pressed into service.

TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE MEETS

The committee on transportation of the board of trade met this morning at the board's rooms to discuss what action could be taken to regulate the running of jitneys here in Lowell so that there would be an equitable distribution of transportation conveniences in various sections of the city. Before any definite action should be taken, it was felt advisable to confer with the municipal authorities on the matter and, accordingly, a sub-committee was appointed to wait on Mayor Perry D. Thompson.

It was suggested that the jitney operators be prevailed upon to designate plainly on their cars just where they are going and what fare they are charging. An effort also should be made, the committee thought, to have an equal number of jitneys on the various routes of travel in the city.

WANT $1,500,000 LOAN

High School Building Commission Asks Additional Loan For New Building

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, June 23.—Mayor Perry D. Thompson with several other Lowell officials appeared before the committee on municipal finance at the state house this morning and advocated the bill of the high school building commission asking that the city of Lowell be authorized to borrow an additional $1,500,000 for the erection of a new high school.

He explained the intention of the commission to erect a building along the lines of the plans made in 1915 at a cost then estimated at about $700,000. Since then costs have advanced to such an extent that a total of $2,000,000 will be needed to erect the building and put it in condition for operation.

Others who advocated the bill were Herbert D. Dixey, principal of the high school; Dr. John H. Lambert, chairman of the high school building commission; Richard Brabrook Walsh, chairman of the school committee; John J. Mullaney, a member of the building commission, and others.

The only opposition came from Andrew E. Barrett, who insisted that the building can be erected much more cheaply than is proposed by the commission. Of the original $700,000 which the city has already been authorized to borrow, he said that $427,000 remains unexpended and he believed that with $500,000 more the commission can erect a building which will meet Lowell's needs for at least 20 years.

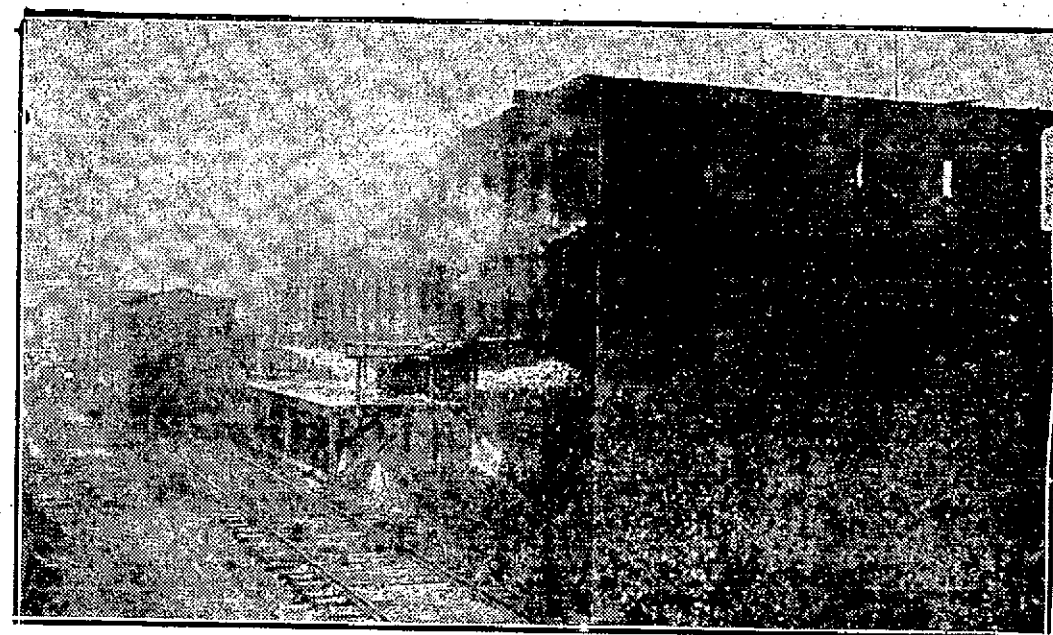

He declared that the legislature should not authorize the erection of a palace for high school students at a time when grammar school pupils were not properly taken care of.

$100,000 Fire This Morning at the Northern Waste Company's Plant in Atherton

SCENE OF FIRE AT NORTHERN WASTE COMPANY'S PLANT

Fire, believed to have started from a spark generated during the installation of an electric elevator fuse, gutted the top floor of the plant of the Northern Waste company at Atherton this morning and caused damage estimated at between $90,000 and $100,000. The plant is located in an old of the Newton Mfg. company building and with quantities of explosive material in such close proximity to the blaze two alarms were sounded to check the flames. The fire was discovered at 3.30 o'clock and as soon as Chief Saunders arrived he pulled a second alarm. The firemen were handicapped at first by low water pressure, but this was soon remedied when two steamers and two combination pumps were put into service.

The fire was a hard one to fight and it soon spread the whole length of the ell. There was some fear at one time when it was announced that a small one-story wooden building in the rear of the ell, about 50 feet from the structure, contained 25,000 detonators or high explosives, but several men were kept on the premises and through effective work they succeeded in preventing the flames from reaching the magazine. There also was another magazine containing powder in the yard in the rear of the plant and a vigilant eye was kept on the structure for fear that a spark might ignite it.

The flames were discovered by Sam Taylor, a watchman in the employ of the Newton Mfg. Co., who saw the blaze through a window on the top floor of the building. He quickly sent in an alarm from box 818, the company's private box and a few minutes later the firemen were on the scene, but by that time the flames had burst through the roof. Chief Saunders ordered the sounding of a second alarm, while several lines of hose were laid. The men climbed on the roof of the building, but were badly handicapped by the fact that the water pressure was too low for the streams to reach the blaze.

By this time the fire had worked its way to a point about the center of the ell and was progressing rapidly. Steamer connections were made with a hydrant and two lines of hose laid. At the same time the Robinson combination was pressed into service and pumped water from an old cistern in the yard in the rear of the mill, two lines of hose, extending to the rear of the ell, being put into action. The White combination also was hitched to a hydrant and another steamer was

LONDON, June 23.—Although reports have stated that six Germans were killed and 10 wounded when the boats of the German fleet in Scapa Flow were fired upon subsequent to the scuttling of the German fleet, the Daily Mail says that others may have been drowned and that some may possibly have reached the shore. Admiral von Reuter visited Germany some weeks ago, it being understood that he was ill, but he soon returned and it is believed that at that time he circulated the order to sink the ships by evading the censorship or making signals to the various vessels.

"BOB" LIKES NEW BRUNSWICK

Robert B. Manning, manager of the Waverly hotel, has returned from a trip to New Brunswick, having gone there with his mother, Mrs. Emma Manning, who will spend the summer in the province. Mr. Manning's trip to New Brunswick has resulted in the addition of another booster for that very delightful country. "I was somewhat of the opinion that New Brunswick was like a great many more country places, easy-going, perhaps a little slack, and behind the times. But it didn't take the New Brunswickers long to disillusion me. I went by boat to St. John and I must say that I am not very much in love with that city. There's an unexplainable something about it that doesn't appeal to me. I did not remain there long and in fact would not have stopped over there at all, but my mother and myself missed the train to Sussex on account of our boat being late. But Sussex and the surrounding country are simply grand. The farmers are more than well-to-do, they are extremely prosperous and hospitality reigns supreme. They have splendid homes and I never saw such barns in my life. They all have automobiles and most of them have their own electric light plants. Rather than think they have something on the Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont farmers. And they are so happy and contented it's a joy to be with them. It sure is one beautiful country. The scenery is grand and there's something in the air that makes a fellow feel good."

WELCOME HOME MEETING

A very enthusiastic meeting of French-speaking soldiers and sailors who took part in the great world war was held yesterday noon at the C.M.A.C. in Pawtucket street under the auspices of the general committee in charge of the welcome home celebration to be held here next August. The purpose of the gathering was to induce the soldiers and sailors to do their utmost in making the event a notable one. The men organized into an organization, which may become permanent and they elected J. A. N. Chretien as temporary president, and the following committee was appointed to attend the meetings of the general committee on the celebration: Joseph Dussault, Arthur Pelletier, Edgar Rheume, Napoleon Vigeant, Jos. Fayette, Charles Gervais, Arthur Turcotte, Phyllis Ducharme, Henri Lemire, Charles Toupin and J. A. N. Chretien. The meeting was presided over by Chairman J. L. Lamoureux and interesting remarks were made by Rev. L. N. Bachand, O.M.I., Arthur Beaucage, Rep. Henri Achin and others.

carried out and that the German government cannot be held responsible for what may occur, the note concluded by saying that the Germans will sign, with reservations relative to the turning over of those alleged to be guilty of crimes and also the admission of the guilt of Germany in causing the war.

In replying, the council of four said: "The allied and associated powers have considered the note of the German delegation of even date and, in view of the shortness of time remaining, feel it their duty to reply at once. The allied and associated governments have given fullest consideration to all representations hitherto made by the German government with regard to the treaty and have replied with complete frankness. They have made such concessions as they thought it was just to make. The present note of the German delegation presents no new arguments or considerations not already examined.

In replying, the Council of Four declared that the time for discussion was past and that the German representatives must make a decision to sign and accept the treaty as a whole or to reject it.

The concluding paragraphs of the German note are as follows:

"The government of the German republic engaged to fulfill the conditions of peace imposed upon Germany. It desires, however, in this solemn moment to express itself with unreserved clearness in order to meet in advance any accusation of untruthfulness that may now or later be made against Germany.

"The conditions imposed exceed the measure of that which Germany can in fact perform. The government of the German republic therefore feels bound to announce that it makes all reservations and declines all responsibility as regards the consequences which may be threatened against Germany when, as is bound to happen, the impossibility of carrying out the conditions comes to life, even though Germany's capacity to fulfill them is stretched to the utmost.

Cannot Accept Article 230

"Germany further lays the greatest emphasis on the declaration that she cannot accept Article 230 of the treaty of peace, which requires Germany to admit herself to be the sole and only author of the war, and she does not cover this article by her signature. It consequently follows without further argument that Germany must also decline to recognize that the burden should be placed upon her on the score of the responsibility of the war which has unjustly been laid at her door.

"Likewise, it is equally impossible for a German to reconcile it with his dignity and honor to accept and exonerate articles 227 to 230 by which Germany is required to give up to the allied and associated powers for trial, individuals among the German people, who are accused by the allied and associated powers of breach of international law and of committing acts contrary to the customs of war.

Protests Loss of Colonies

"Further the government of the German republic makes a distinct protest against the taking away of all the colonial possessions of Germany and the reasons given therefore which permanently deny to Germany fitness for colonial activity, although the contrary is clearly established, and irrefutable evidence to this effect is contained in the observations of the German peace delegation on the conditions of peace.

"The government of the German republic assumes that it is in accordance with the desires of the allied and associated governments that it has spoken openly both as regards what concerns its good will and also as regards its reservations. Therefore, in view of the condition of constraint into which the German people are forced by the requirements of the allies—a condition of constraint such as has never been inflicted on any people in a manner more crushing and more disastrous in its consequences—and relying on the express undertaking of the allied and associated governments in their memorandum of June 16, 1919, the German government believes itself to be entitled to address the following modest request to the allied and associated governments in the expectation that the allied and associated governments will consider the following declaration as an integral portion of the treaty:

Sign Under Protest

"Within two years, counting from the day when the treaty is signed, the allied and associated governments will submit the present treaty to the high council of the powers as constituted by the League of Nations, according to Article 4, for the purpose of subsequent examination. Before this high council the German plenipotentiaries are to enjoy the same rights and privileges as the representatives of the other contracting powers of the present treaty. This council shall decide in regard to those conditions of the present treaty which impair the rights to self-determination of the German people and also in regard to the stipulation whereby the free economic development of Germany on a footing of equal rights is impeded."

"The government of the German republic accordingly gives the declaration of its consent as required by the note of June 16, 1919, in the following form:

"The government of the German republic is ready to sign the treaty of peace, without, however, recognizing thereby that the German people was the author of the war and without undertaking any responsibility for deliv-ing articles 227 to 230 of the treaty of peace."

BIG THREE REJECT PLEA FOR TIME

PARIS, June 23 (By the Associated Press).—Germany today requested an additional 48 hours within which to make known its decision relative to signing of the peace treaty without the reservations required by the entente. The Council of Three flatly refused the request.

The request for additional time pleaded that the change in the government and the generally disturbed conditions made it difficult to complete the arrangements.

The communication from the Germans was received at 3 o'clock this morning. At 9 o'clock President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau met with Premier Lloyd George at the latter's house for consideration of the note. The character of this communication was not disclosed, however, until some time later when announcement was made that the German request had been rejected.

GERMAN ASSEMBLY AGREES TO SIGN

BERLIN, June 23 (By the Associated Press).—Germany will sign the peace treaty of the allied and associated powers.

The national assembly yesterday afternoon by a vote of 227 to 148 decided to sign. The assembly also voted confidence in the new government of Herr Bauer, 238 to 88. Sixty-eight members abstained from voting. On the question of signing the treaty five members of the assembly abstained from voting.

Before the vote of confidence was taken, Herr Bauer, the new premier, declared that the government would sign the treaty, but without acknowledging the responsibility of the German people for the war and without accepting the obligations contained in articles 227 to 230 in the treaty relating to the trial of the former emperor and the extradition of other German personages.

OFFICIAL REPORT SAYS HUNS TO SIGN

WEIMAR, Sunday, June 23.—(By the Associated Press).—It is officially announced that Germany will sign the treaty of peace.

In announcing the decision of the German government to sign the peace terms before the national assembly today, Premier Bauer said:

"At this hour of life and death, under the menace of invasion for the last time, I raise in free Germany a protest against this treaty of violence and destruction. I protest against this mockery of self-determination, this enslavement of the German people, this new menace to the peace of the world, under the mask of a treaty of peace. No signing can enfeeble this protest which we raise and swear to. This treaty does not lose its annihilating character by alterations in detail. Protesting against it is useless and is at the risk of a new crisis within 48 hours.

Power of Resistance Broken

"Our power of resistance is broken and there is no means of averting this treaty. The treaty itself, however, does give us a handle which we cannot allow to be wrested from us, namely the entente's solemn promise of June 16 that the treaty can be revised from time to time and adapted to new conditions. That is one of the few words in the treaty breathing the real spirit of peace."

Premier Bauer concluded by expressing his faith in the German people and their final realization of a better future. He said they were faced with years of labor for the foreign account, but owed it to their descendants to hold the country together.

"They must safeguard our new liberty," he said. "There must be a will to work and a discipline in all ranks of society. 'There are no miraculous charms to cure a nation. Even a world revolution cannot rid us of the malady from which we are wearing away. Only by a revolution of our more consciousness can we succeed in raising ourselves out of our night into a better future."

The Weimar despatch carrying the official announcement that Germany would sign the peace treaty was filed at Weimar at 4.08 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Apparently it referred to the decision of the German government to sign the treaty with the reservation of which it gave notice to the allied powers and which the latter rejected. "Advices this morning show that the Germans made an appeal for an additional 48 hours to make known their decisions regarding the signing of the treaty without any reservations. It would thus appear that Germany has not yet officially notified the peace conference that she would sign the treaty and accept all of its terms.

Review of Conference

The peace treaty of Versailles is the fruit of about five months of conferences in which delegations from thirty-two allied countries and German participated. The five leading nations—the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, were represented in the peace conferences at Paris by five delegates each, while the delegations of other nations and British dominions were composed of from one to three men.

The representatives of the United States were President Wilson, Secretary of State Robert Lansing, Henry White, formerly American ambassador at Rome and Paris; Colonel Ed-

HAZZARD SAYS SONG WON MISS PUFFER

AYER, June 23.—Arthur Garfield (Honey) Hazzard, colored choreman, of this town, sang his way into the heart of Miss Mabel Puffer through sentimental ballads, so he maintained yesterday to a reporter while seated at the window of his home, which fronts the rear of the small police station where his intended bride is being detained under observation.

Sentimentality was running high in "Honey's" own heart at the moment, for he was home from a fruitless six-hour vigil in front of the police station, where he hoped to obtain a glimpse of his temporarily lost one, should she desire to take a stroll with Mrs. Mary A. Sughrue, state police matron.

He stationed himself shortly after 2 o'clock, beside a lamppost, directly opposite the station and in view of the stained glass window of the detention pen. At about 7 o'clock the pangs of hunger overcame "Honey's" patience and he left for his home, little realizing that his fiancée would make her appearance within the next 10 minutes.

In the family gathering at Hazzard's home were his 72-year-old mother, a highly respected woman of this town and for many years a chorister in the Ayer M. E. church; a sister, Miss Bertha, a talented reader and musician, and another sister, Mrs. Annie T. Roland, of Burlington, formerly a school teacher. It was while the members were evidencing the tracing of their ancestry 250 years back for the benefit of the reporter, pointing out the various wars in which they figured prominently, that "Honey" put in his own ability as a musician and vocalist.

For 15 years, he added, he has been singing to Miss Puffer. She first heard him sing, he said, while he was chopping wood for her. He believed he was singing at that time a popular southern song and Miss Puffer was so impressed with the melody that she asked him to sing it several times. This began the romance, according to "Honey."

Sentimental songs were their favorite ones, "Honey" asserted. Ragtime was not welcomed in Miss Puffer's home but a song to the words and music of "A Perfect Day" was typical in the couple's opinion of genuine sentimentality. For the last three years or so, said the intended groom, this song held sway in the wealthy woman's household and hardly a day passed that its melody was not repeated.

In deep contrast to the appropriateness of the song's words, "Honey" pointed out to the reporter that his arrest and that of his bride-to-be on the eve of their marriage was the "end of an imperfect day."

"When this affair is smoothed over," he added, "it will be the beginning of a perfect day."

NEW HAMPSHIRE MAN WAS OBSTREPEROUS

An unsuccessful attempt to break up the Salvation Army meeting at Jackson and Central streets last evening cost Charles H. Mulcahey of Nashua, N. H., $5 in police court today. "Booze was the cause of it all," was Charlie's only defense.

It seems that Charlie dropped down from the arid regions of New Hampshire Saturday and got pretty well "ranked up." On Sunday he managed to get even more so, and shortly after 7 o'clock he broke into the "Sal" meeting and insisted upon making a speech.

Although he swore by all that was great and holy that he could unfurl a tale that would make his listeners' hair stand on end, Adjutant Clark, who presided over the crowd, and asked him to refrain from creating a disturbance.

But Charlie couldn't see it. He wanted to make that speech, and that was all there was to it. Some of the bystanders attempted to quiet him but he broke away and peeling off his coat, began swinging right hooks and left jabs in every direction, one of which landed flush on a Salvation Army man's jaw.

Right here the crowd took a hand in the affair and things looked rather dark for Charlie when Policeman Clark arrived on the scene in response to a call from Adjutant Clark. The officer rescued him from the hands of the enraged bystanders, and he was taken to the station.

Charlie admitted his guilt when called to take the stand, although he explained that he couldn't remember a thing about the affair. "My brain was in a whirl from the strong drink," he said. "I don't know what I did. I suppose I must have, and I want to offer an apology to the Salvation Army right now."

Adjutant Clark asked the court to exercise leniency in dealing with Charlie's case, as he believed that the man was too drunk to know what he was doing. Charlie also pleaded long and earnestly for a chance to get back to New Hampshire, and was finally let down with a $5 fine.

Other Offenders

Charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and also with drunkenness, Patrick G. McCall, a doughboy stationed at Camp Devens, entered a plea of guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $20. Patricia secured an auto in some manner Saturday evening and during his little joy-ride struck a woman at Merrimack and Dutton streets which resulted in his immediate arrest.

Fines of $15 each were imposed on Edward Nichols and Margaret Keeley who pleaded guilty to a statutory charge.

The case of Frank J. Slogston, who was charged with assault and battery and disorderly conduct on a street car, was closed on file.

vice, reduced the forced foot traffic somewhat.

Special meetings of the local governments were called in several cities and towns to devise means of meeting the emergency. Measures were taken for special public conveyance permits should the strike continue during the day.

In larger cities where a considerable number of workers live in the outlying districts, the loss of car service was a decided hardship.

In Lynn it was estimated that 30,000 electrical and shoeworkers walked to the factories for the first time in years. Similar conditions existed in Haverhill, Lawrence, Salem, Lowell, Fall River, Quincy and many other communities.

Carmen in other localities, especially south of Boston, were expected to vote on the question of joining the strike later today.

The agitation for a general strike on the system arose from a strike of the Lowell car men a week ago in protest against the use of hand fare registers on open cars. Affiliated unions with the exception of the Brockton district local voted sympathetic action and several added a demand for revision of their working agreement. The strike was called without sanction of the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway Employees and against the advice of W. D. Mahon, president of that organization who has threatened to revoke the local union charters unless the men return by tonight.

Decide to Defer Strike

The Fall River, Brockton and Taunton divisions reported employees working their regular trips, the union men having decided to follow the advice of W. D. Mahon, president of the carmen's international union and defer strike action pending the result of his efforts to negotiate with the company today.

A conference between the joint committee of all the local unions of the Bay State system, including Newport, R. I. and Nashua, N. H., and the International officers was held here after President W. D. Mahon and Vice President John H. Reardon of the International union had conferred with committees of the men representing locals that have thus far refused to join the general strike. In discussing the strike, President Mahon said: "The Bay State carmen are working under a contract which provides for arbitration. They have broken this contract and unless they follow my order to return to work, the International union will revoke their union charters."

"I know absolutely nothing of the merits of the strike. The only course for the Lowell local to have taken was to submit its dispute to its grievance committee, enter a protest with the division superintendent and failing to get redress to have appealed to the International union and if this latter medium failed, to place the entire matter in arbitration."

"When I hear from the joint committee today and learn their intentions, my work here will be done. If they persist in their determination to strike, the International union will then order their local charters void, the present wage agreement broken and all union privileges under the laws of the association revoked. I personally have no knowledge of their planned course. I will not try to effect a settlement by trying to secure any concession from the Bay State. I have ordered the men to return to work."

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 23.—Endorsement of the commercial telegraphers' strike was unanimously voted today by the American Federation of Labor. The convention also went on record in favor of a 44 hour week for labor generally and directed the executive council to work for that end.

motormen and conductors from the Weymouth car house, who yesterday struck with the men from the Quincy division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., today returned to their cars. All regular lines were on schedule. The local carmen voted unanimously to petition President Mahon of the international union for the right to secede from the Quincy local and establish a local of their own in East Weymouth.

Outside of picketing at Quincy bridge by the Quincy car men and occasional jeers and jibes by strike sympathizers at that point, there was no unusual excitement. The East Weymouth men were operating the Quincy line only as far as the Quincy Point bridge and refused to go into the city of Quincy.

Early trips to Fore River this morning, where nearly 4000 Weymouth men work, were run only to the Weymouth boundary. Each car carried a police officer and a plain clothes guard. There was no trouble.

Tie-up in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, June 23.—Street car service was still tied up today. A meeting of the local union will be held tonight when action may be taken on the question of continuing the strike in sympathy with the demands of the employees of the Lowell division.

Hearings on Petitions Presented by Atty. Vahey Open at New York

NEW YORK, June 23.—Hearings of petitions for wage increases for street railway employees of New England were begun here today before Charleston Ogburn, examiner of the war labor board. James H. Vahey of Boston, counsel for the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees of America, presented the petitions.

The employees of the Boston Elevated Railroad Co. are asking for a maximum wage rate of 75 cents an hour, as compared with the prevailing rate of 45 cents to 48 cents.

The employees of the Rhode Island Co., which operates the lines throughout that state, are making similar demands for a minimum rate of 70 cents an hour and a maximum rate of 75 cents an hour, against the prevailing rate of 45 and 48 cents.

The house of Pierre Sabourin, 19 Colvin street, Pawtucket, stands on the dividing line of two towns—Pawtucket and Attleboro—and also on the dividing line of two states, so that Mr. Sabourin sleeps with his feet in Massachusetts and his head in Rhode Island. The courts have ruled that where a man's head is when he sleeps there he lives, so that Mr. Sabourin pays all his taxes except the taxes on his real estate to Pawtucket. His real estate taxes are divided.

WIDOW OF GEN. DRAPER DEAD

ROME, Sunday, June 23.—Mrs. W. F. Draper, widow of Gen. Draper, American ambassador here 20 years ago, died this morning at a hotel in this city. Her daughter, Princess Boncompagni, was at the bedside when the end came.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Several young people were received into the membership of the First Presbyterian church yesterday at its morning service. The preacher was Rev. David S. Kennedy, D.D., of Philadelphia father of the present pastor, Rev. J. E. Kennedy. The pastor emeritus, Rev. J. M. Craig took charge of the service last evening. The sermon subject in the morning was "Hearing." The service was largely attended as it was a part of the semi-centennial observance.

MUSIC IN THE EARLY MORNING HOURS

Music may have its charms to appease the tormented soul or soothe the savage breast, when employed at the right time, but 4.30 a. m. is not the psychological hour at which to attempt the experiment, declare the residents of Appleton street.

Still, there are some folks who do not take this view, for the appealing strains of "The Cootie Tickle," "I'm a Jazz Baby" and "Alcoholic Blues" are wafted through the morning zephyrs in this peaceful part of the city long before old Sol starts on his daily rounds, rudely disturbing those who are basking in the arms of Morpheus.

If it were merely some ambitious opera star of the future trying out her voice before she leaves home for office, factory or shop, they could make allowances, say the residents of Appleton street, but who in blazes wants to listen to that tenement hoodoo, a phonograph, at this unearthly hour.

"If there is an anyone time during the night that I hate to be disturbed it's in the morning," was the way one irate neighbor expressed himself on the subject. "And when one must listen to this infernal racket at 4.30—Ye gods, it's awful," he finished, with a yawn bespeaking the extent to which the early morning serenades have played upon his frayed nerves.

The offending family seems to be of the opinion that the neighbors enjoy this morning operetta, which in their minds is a triumphant march played for the benefit of the milkmen. They open the windows to allow the full glory of the alleged music to burst forth upon the outside world and the echoes resound from all the adjoining houses. Peculiarly, the resounding echoes are not of music but of groans, cat calls and just plain honest-to-goodness cuss words.

"Why should I pay one paper more than another for the same amount of space? They're both probably good papers and they both have about the same amount of circulation, don't they?"

A question like this is often asked a newspaper's advertising department and it has to be answered with patience and in detail. This question, if asked sincerely, shows the questioner does not know one of the great fundamentals of the publishing business.

It is circulation. After you've done the best you could getting the news, editing it and printing it, it is still up to the management of the paper to see that it is widely distributed. The reason why one paper may be entitled to a dollar an inch for its space and the other paper in a town entitled to only fifty cents is as plain as that it costs more to get five men to peddle circulars than it does one.

Circulation is the thing that counts. The more circulation a paper gives your ad, the greater the distribution among people who will read your ad and come down town and buy what you are selling. Be sure you get the circulation you think you're paying for. Circulation is the thing that counts and that fact was never more self-evident than in the case of

The sum of $50,000 has been offered as a prize to the aviator who will be first to fly across the Pacific ocean. That, we take it, is not to be a non-stop flight, as the time limit is set at 16 days. This feat will be performed in due time and the next to be undertaken will be to fly around the world. That, too, will be achieved. Aviation is only in its infancy, but experts now assert that for practical purposes, some form of machine more stable than the ordinary airplane is necessary. The dirigible has the safety but not the necessary speed. In due time, however, it is quite probable that an airplane will be produced that will combine the qualities of safety and speed so as to make it more applicable to commercial purposes.

HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS.

With reference to the new high school, it may be well for the school board to take into account the action of other cities in regard to high school accommodations. The city of Springfield has a fine technical high school, and now the city of Worcester is about to establish a similar school. The Worcester school board has also decided in favor of a junior high school to be distinct from the classical high. This is in line with the suggestions recently offered by The Sun as to the needs of a junior and senior high school in this city. A technical high school would offer great advantages to the young people of our city in getting started in the direction of mechanical occupations. It may be said that the Lowell Textile school offers sufficient opportunities in this direction, but that has developed into a textile university which is run more as a college than as a free public school.

ANTI TOBACCO CAMPAIGN

Out in Pennsylvania, a movement has been started to prohibit the production and sale of tobacco in every form. A company has just been refused a charter under the title of a "No Tobacco Corporation," its object being "to secure by law a prohibition of the culture, sale and use of tobacco." The presiding judge decided that the aims of the corporation are altogether outside the range of public service in which the state should take part. This, however, is not likely to stop the campaign against the use of tobacco. There is such a thing as carrying such reforms to unnecessary extremes and thus defeating them that are absolutely necessary. The parties entering this campaign would show better judgment by waiting to see how the prohibition law will work throughout the country.

WORK FOR BOYS

Last year, there were various organizations for distributing high school graduates and others who wanted work, among the employers who needed help. This year, it seems that the graduates will have to shift for themselves in finding employment, with the number of jobs very much less than last year. Some of the graduates do not need work and can enjoy the vacation months either at home or at some popular resort; but others do need the work and judging from the present outlook, they will have difficulty in finding much to do during the summer. It seems there should be some employment bureau to receive applications for young men and thus assist them in getting work. Many of the high school boys will derive much physical benefit from work in the open fields during the vacation, and if they get a chance to work on a farm they should promptly accept it as a privilege which city folks seldom enjoy.

THE CAR STRIKE

There could be no better illustration of the necessity of a compulsory arbitration law to settle all disputes that cause a suspension of the operation of public service corporations than the present strike on the Eastern Massachusetts street Railway system.

The issue involved is one that should have been submitted to an arbitration board without any interruption of the service. Had that course been adopted, the result would have been better for all concerned and there would have been no charges of broken agreements, no appeals for sympathy to parties who are not competent to decide the issue and no loss or suffering to the public.

The question raised is one for arbitration pure and simple, and as the strike is in violation of an existing arbitration agreement and without the approval of the international union officials, it seems that these officials, in conjunction with the trustees of the company, should take steps to have the dispute settled at the earliest possible moment.

The public has already suffered great loss and inconvenience and is now becoming impatient under the hardships resulting from the strike, the extension of which to other cities makes its effects still more serious.

THE INTER-RACIAL COUNCIL

What is known as an "Inter-racial Council" has been formed in New York for the purpose of spreading American ideals and American standards among the racial groups in the United States wherever possible. The council is to work chiefly among the aliens employed in American industries, confident that by improving the working conditions of these foreigners and helping them to a higher plane of existence, it will thereby make them better Americans. This council represents some of the leading industries of the country and is certainly a formidable body so far as resources are concerned. It is planned to work largely through the foreign language press of the country exclusive of German, seeking to reach the various nationalities in terms they can understand. With this purpose in view, the council has secured control of many of the foreign language newspapers, and these in the future will be used to assist in promoting American ideals and pointing out the dangers of radicalism. Heretofore, many of these papers have been used for the purpose of spreading the brand of propaganda preached by the I.V.W., the socialists and Bolsheviks. There is little doubt that this organization can accomplish much good in its co-operation with other organizations working for a like purpose along different educational lines.

SCHOOL GRADUATIONS

Perhaps it is too late now to offer a suggestion as to the propriety of making school graduations as inexpensive as possible to the parents of the pupils. Doubtless the teachers have used their influence in this direction to prevent any needless display of dress at the high school graduation. With the present high price of every fabric needed in women's wardrobe, it would be a real hardship to some families to dress up a young lady in accordance with the latest fashions and the whims of the period for school commencement occasions.

There has always been needless display at some of the school graduations, but anything of the kind would be very much out of place this year owing to the high cost of living and the fact that we have just been through a terrible war that brought severe conditions on those who remained at home as well as those who entered the service of the government. The school departments of some cities have wisely arranged for gingham dresses at the graduation exercises. Something of the kind should be done in every city; but it has not been suggested here and there is no time now to change the program.

FIGHTING THE LEAGUE

One of the ways by which United States senators abuse the franking privilege and pile up expenses upon the government is by ordering speeches and documents of a miscellaneous character printed in the Congressional Record and then mailing copies broadcast throughout the country.

But recently, the alleged copy of the peace treaty was so printed and the next move is to send out copies of the text far and wide under the frank of some senator opposed to the League of Nations.

At the present time, Senator Reed of Missouri is sending out a part of the record containing a printed speech delivered by Judge Valkenberg before the Kansas City Bar association last May, in reference to the League of Nations. This able jurist is evidently opposed to the league and judging from the elaborate way in which he treats the whole subject, his speech appears to be that of a paid advocate rather than a citizen entering a protest from patriotic motives.

Moreover, if names indicate anything, it would seem that Judge Valkenberg's sympathies may not be wholly American. Still, his arguments appear to be framed in the interest of the United States alone; but he overlooks the one great reason why not only this republic, but every other civilized nation should hold fast to the League of Nations as offering the only safeguard against future wars even more terrible than that which has spread ruin and disaster all over Europe.

Even the generals who fought during the war dreaded the campaign of 1919, when it appeared the war might be prolonged. They were afraid of the bacilli the Germans might spread among the allied forces and they felt that it might be necessary to apply some of the all powerful explosives and the new destructive gases developed in the United States.

Against the use of such devastating agencies by the various powers, and the resumption of the old method of competitive armaments and the balance of power with the certainty of future wars, the League of Nations alone can offer a remedy acceptable to all nations.

Without some such mode of preventing war, all Europe will lapse into a state of chaos and this nation cannot escape sharing the general ruin.

Moreover, there can be no League of Nations without the United States being one of the leading powers. Therefore, to withdraw, as republicans propose, would be to leave civilization itself in jeopardy.

This is the goal towards which Lodge and Borah and Reed and Brandegee and Penrose are moving in the senate. It is to bolster up their position they get the speeches of Judge Valkenberg and others printed in the record and distributed throughout the land at the public expense.

Why should this form of propaganda be tolerated since it is conducted entirely at the government expense?

Daylight savings will not be enforced by law after October, but this is a matter in which the people are not restricted. They can save their daylight as freely as ever by getting up earlier in the morning and retiring earlier at night. It has been very pleasant to have a few hours' daylight after a day's work, but the change in the law will make that impossible. Those who want to save daylight in the future will have to do so in the early morning, which is the most delicious part of the day.

Cablegrams from China are not to cost so much in the future. The price from San Francisco has been reduced from $1.10 a word to 88 cents. This makes considerable difference, particularly with a people who speak in monosyllables.

How did you enjoy your electric car ride yesterday? Such a nice day to be outdoors, too!

All the air being saved by the abandonment of the car brake is going into automobile tires.

More shoes will be tapped in Lowell this week than ever before in the life of the city.

Five cents for a doughnut and the restaurateur doesn't care whether you eat the hole or leave it.

With a police officer directing traffic in Westford street and a watchful eye looking over Prescott street, automobile regulations are on the mend.

With a basket of strawberries rattling for 33 cents, how can a restaurant man have the nerve to charge 30 cents for an order of strawberry shortcake?

The guys who try to butt in and write stuff for this column make me tired. They don't seem to realize that it requires a college professor of years' standing to turn out the classics appearing here. I should say not.

After July 1 ice dealers, no doubt, may increase the price "due to the shortage of ice, caused by the shortage of water, brought about by so many folks riding on the water wagon." Oh, well, one excuse is as good as another.

When the bureau of war risk insurance received a communication with reference to Charles R. Eliver of Tusumatha, Ala., a search was made for his name on the records. One bright clerk finally located it, Charles R. Ford, of Tusumathana.

Franklin's Toast

Perhaps in the effort to determine the relative validity of the voices of the nations round the peace table the old story of Franklin may appropriately be told once more.

A guest at dinner when the great Philadelphia was present said: "We have three nationalities here: Mr. Franklin is American; here is an Englishman; I am a Frenchman; let us each propose a toast."

The Englishman said: "Here's to Great Britain, the sun that gives light to all the nations of the earth."

The Frenchman said: "Here's to France, the moon whose magic rays move the tides of the world."

Franklin had the last word: "Here's to George Washington, the Joshua who commanded the sun and moon to stand still, and they obeyed." Philadelphia Public Ledger.

No Chance to Flirt

Married women on the north coast of Africa don't flirt. According to Miss Olive Tarbell of West Grotton, back from service overseas with the Red Cross, they can't, the reason being that you can tell a married woman a block away by her dress. Miss Tarbell spent five days on the north coast of Africa while her ship was coaling, and in a shore trip an Arab sheik offered to buy her for a wife at 300 francs.

"Before a Moroccan woman is married," Miss Tarbell says, "she wears a veil over her face, with one eye exposed. Her ankles are tattooed in brilliant colors. After marriage she still wears the veil, but is allowed to show both eyes. Her heels are then tattooed to match her ankles, and she wears little flat half-slippers, to show them off, proclaiming to all the world that she is a married woman."

And Georgia Is Dry

G. W. Robbins was working in his garden in Atlanta, Ga., pulling some radishes the other evening when he discovered a six-foot coachwhip snake watching him. Robbins quit pulling radishes and beat it. But the beating wasn't good just then. The coachwhip chased him. Robbins let out an extra ounce of steam and ran faster. The snake speeded up. The chase ended near the barn where Robbins was forced to pause for breath. The snake also was shy of wind and crawled under the barn to rest up for a fresh start. Robbins encouraged by this maneuver and angered at the damage already done his radishes, grasped the snake by the tail and dragged it out. Instantly the coachwhip changed tactics, and leaped itself about Robbins' neck. Business picked up at once, and the warm summer atmosphere was

TO ALL WOMEN WHO ARE ILL

This Woman Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Her Personal Experience.

McLean, Neb.—"I want to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer from any functional disturbance, as it has done me more good than all the doctor's medicine. Since taking it I have a fine healthy baby girl and have gained in health and strength. My husband and I both praise your medicine to all suffering women."—Mrs. JOHN KOPPELMANN, R. No. 1, McLean, Nebraska.

This famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has been restoring women of America to health for more than forty years and it will well pay any woman who suffers from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues" to give this successful remedy a trial.

The letters constantly being published from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the worth of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

chattered by rude exclamations of the rough-and-ready variety. The coachwhip had a combination grapevine and head hold on Robbins, who was striving to achieve the deadly toe-hold made famous by Wrestler Gotch. The radish bed was used as a mat, and the grapple was fast and furious. It is a difficult matter to put a toe-hold on a large and scientific snake, but Robbins was battling for his life and a few remaining radishes—and he got the hold. The first thing he did was to unwrap the coachwhip from his neck. Then he violated all wrestling rules and regulations, the constitution of the United States, and the laws laid down by the marquis of Queensberry. Robbins deliberately and with malice aforethought popped his late adversary's head against the side of the barn. The battle ended there. G. W. Robbins is coachwhip wrestling champion of Georgia. Now then, if you know a better snake story than that, send it in.

Moxings on Natural History

For birds I entertain a care: I like the way they take the air! Their singing soothes my inner ear. And I am pleased when they appear, in crimson feathers shining in the sun, in short, I think that birds will do— But they eat worms, which proves, I'm sure, Their taste is far from epicure.

SQUIRRELS I quite approve of squirrels, I think, Although I'd much prefer them pink; Their tails are shining in the sun, and nimble they can shin aloft, But I can't understand why they should chew on hard-shelled nuts all day.

When they could find much softer eats, Like pease, bananas, soup and beats.

WORMS

I would not for a single term Agree to underwrite the worm; The way he rises after rains, Is proof to me he has no brains, For he is stepped on in his fight, Which must be quite distressing, quite.

Another reason why, I think, The garden worm's a silly gink, His chassis is assembled wrong And his wheelbase it is much too long.

PEOPLE

People are nice, but then I fear There are too many people here; When one would watch a function gay They're always standing in your way; And when in need of much repose They park themselves upon your toes. I think they're ordinary, too, And that includes you and me, you.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Naturally there is absorbing interest among Lowell druggists and the public generally in the announcement that Frank J. Campbell, the well known local pharmacist, is one of those endorsed by the Massachusetts Pharmaceutical association for appointment to the state board of pharmacy. The appointing power lies with the governor and it is said that there is to be some hustling done to put Mr. Campbell on the board. It is some time since Lowell had a representative on the state board and local pride makes one feel that there should be a representative from this city on such an important body. The recommendation of the Bay State druggists that Mr. Campbell be selected is concurred in heartily by Lowell people who know Mr. Campbell as a capable exponent of his art.

FLAG EXERCISES AT ST. ANNE'S CHURCH

The service flag of St. Anne's Episcopal church, bearing 65 stars, three of them of sacrificial gold, was demobilized yesterday morning at the usual church service. The demobilization ceremony was deeply religious and inspiring as gold bars were planned over the stars of service. The speaker was Chaplain J. T. Addison of the gas division in France. He urged a full participation in world affairs, a giving of power and ideals to the world and warned against politicians who seek to maintain the old order of things. In part, he said:

"If I know the American soldier and sailor at all he is not happy when he is being praised or paraded. Comradeship is the highest tribute we can pay to these men. We must learn from their example, and, with their help, we must carry on our work. The cause of the American army was a noble and world-wide one. It had tasks full of difficulty and grave risk. If we have a cause it, too, must be noble and world-wide, and it is bound to be full of difficulty and grave risk. The men of our army and navy, in common with our allies, tackled big things, and that is how they won."

"Democracy will not look after itself; it must be jealously guarded. Today we have just about reached two-thirds democracy in our government. We must make it 100 per cent, a truly popular government. It must be responsive to the popular will. It must know justice that is clear, infinite concern for the weak and oppressed."

"Industrially we have got to about 10 per cent democracy. The system of modern capitalism and of modern wages may suit those made comfortable by it. It is a system of competition at all costs and may the toughest win. That is Prussianism. We must all work for one end. Some say that is impossible, but this is an age of impossible things. Two million men in France was an impossible thing, winning the war was an impossible thing—some. Imperialism and autocracy are nearly gone. But the lust for power among the nations is not dead yet. At present there are 12 wars going on in Europe, but, with all our faults, we are not crowding for more territory, for spoils."

CAMP EUKA READY FOR SUMMER USE

Camp Euka, the summer home of the Lowell Young Women's Christian association on the banks of the Merrimack river, has been thoroughly renovated and spruced up for the season which will continue in full swing during the months of July and August. Any girl who wishes rest and healthful recreation, whether for a week-end or a month may find it there and the association officers are only too glad to explain the camp plans to prospective sojourners. Miss Florence Foster is to be the recreation leader during July and Miss Maybelle Burner in August. A weekly "bazaar" and a community sing will be features and one night each week will be given over to dramatics. Younger girls' week is from July 7 to 14 and the week for high school girls from the 14th to the 21st. The members' council of the Y.W.C.A. of which Miss June Sleeper is the chairman, at their meeting Thursday evening, voted to join the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, which is to be completed at St. Louis in August.

ANNUAL FLOWER SERVICE

The annual flower service by the J. A. Garfield Relief Corps was conducted yesterday at the Pawtucket bridge when flowers strewn upon the river waters commemorated the sailor and soldier dead. The service was in charge of Patriotic Instructor Martha Hibbard and the memorial address was given by Rev. Earle T. Favro of the Paige Street Baptist church. Many persons witnessed the ceremony, including a large delegation of G.A.R. men. The Salvation Army band played several hymns and Rev. Mr. Favro offered prayer.

HELD ANNUAL PICNIC

The street car tie-up didn't prevent the young folks of the First Baptist church from holding their annual picnic at the Y.M.C.A. camp at Nahasett Saturday, and one of the largest crowds on record made the trip to the grounds by auto truck during the early hours of the day. A fine program of athletic events was enjoyed during the afternoon, and the return trip was made without incident early in the evening.

RED SOX HAVE NO LUCK ON SUNDAY

The Red Sox spent the week-end in New York and lost a ball game to the Yankees yesterday afternoon at the Polo grounds, 6 to 2. Shore pitched against his former cronies and let them down with five hits, while Jones and James were batted hard. Lewis and Peckinpaugh both had perfect batting averages. Philadelphia hit three Washington pitchers at will, winning 8 to 4. Detroit nosed out Chicago, 5 to 4, and Southern pitched shut-out ball against Cleveland, score 3 to 0.

LOCAL BATTING MARKS

Weaver Leads Lowell Hitters
With Average of .344—
Team Going Well

Although falling off 27 points last week, Weaver, first baseman, still leads the Lowell club in batting with a mark of .344. He has collected 19 hits out of 55 trips to the plate and has scored ten runs. Sullivan ethically stands in second place with an average of .333, but Mike Hayden, who has played in many more games in the past summer-up with his mark of .313. As a team the batting mark went down some last week, but the boys are sticking very well and show a satisfactory group of averages for this time of the year.

Taking an average of the batting of five pitchers and adding it with the marks of the regular eight players, a team average of .279 is found. The individual marks follow:

Player	AB	R	H	Ave.
Weaver	55	10	19	.344
Sullivan	52	9	17	.327
Hayden	67	9	21	.313

EXPERT FINDS THAT JESS IS A BIG MAN

This is the first of a series of articles on the Willard-Dempsey fracas written by the flashy author of "Short Cuts to Success for Barbers" and "Why Whales Carry Their Own Show-er-baths."

TOLEDO, O., June 23.—From the dope I gather in the papers for the last quarter of months, there's going to be a fist-pillow tossing contest between either Willard and Dempsey, or both, on or about July 4th, somewhere in the vicinity of Toledo. Being a devotee for fact, I found out that Willard is the champion and Dempsey the challenger. After watching Willard work out, I want to impress upon the minds of my customers an important point that most sport chauffeurs overlooked. Willard is a big man! When asked for a statement regarding his chances in the possible encounter Willard whispered to me, "The report that I cut my own hair is without foundation." Also, since winning the title it has been said that Willard drink coffee out of a saucer. That, too, is untrue. I only drink tea! To hand time that will play a big part in the placing of bets on the outcome of the fight.

REDS AND NEW YORK IN 10 INNING BATTLE

More than 21,000 people saw Cincinnati defeat New York in a 10-inning game yesterday, 4 to 3. Ruegger and Benton had a thrilling battle, both pitchers becoming more effective as the game lengthened. Young and Kauff collided going after a long hit, the former being obliged to leave the game. Pittsburgh got three runs in a ninth inning rally and beat St. Louis 5 to 4. Detroit threw by Levan in attempting a double play broke up the game. Chicago hit Pfeiffer hard and easily defeated Brooklyn in the eighth inning of the series, 5 to 1. Vaughn pitched in fine form.

LEWIS' MANAGER SAYS VALGER IN FOR BEATING

Joe Kennedy, manager of Gus Lewis, who meets Benny Valger here on Thursday night, in a letter to The Sun expresses great confidence in the ability of his protegee to again triumph over the famous French champion Lewis, according to Kennedy, has beaten Valger in three six round bouts, but this will be their first meeting over the 12 round route. Kennedy's letter in part follows:

Dear Sir—I have just matched Gus Lewis to fight Benny Valger at your local club, June 28th. Lewis has already beaten Valger three times. And I look for him to again beat Valger next Thursday night at Lowell. There is not another fighter in the world who has the record like that of Gus Lewis, the brother of Harry Lewis the former welterweight champion. Gus has beaten all the best bantam feather and lightweights in the world, including Kid Williams, Pete Herman, Al Shubert, Frankie Burns, Frankie Brown, George Chaney, Young Cheney, Johnny Dundee, Johnny Ray, Rocky Kansas, Lew Tendler, George Henry, Larry Hanson, Frankie Fleming, Eddie Macdonald, K. O. Eggers, Battling Reddy, Benny Valger, and many others.

Lewis will be in the best shape of his career next Thursday for his fight with Valger, and will go his best to try and stop the "flash" before the 12 rounds.

Yours respectfully,

JOE KENNEDY, Manager of Lewis.

In addition to the Lewis-Valger bout there will be three other high class numbers. The assessments will be one, two and three, and reservations are now available.

The Lowell grammar school defeated the Lowell Boys' club nine Saturday afternoon at Washington park, 11 to 6. Kierce and Carney featured for the schoolboys. The Butters would like to play the Edison team.

AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS ON MEXICAN BORDER

That the United States army is awaiting and anticipating active developments on the Mexican border is indicated by a telegram received at the local army recruiting station this morning stating that men may be accepted in all branches of the service for the border. Colored men with previous experience will be accepted for the infantry.

Sergt. McLeod has also been notified that when a man applies for enlistment now he may be assigned to any army post he desires. A man may go to one of the forts in Boston harbor or may take up his military duties in the Philippine islands, just as he desires.

Two men were forwarded from the local station for service in the infantry today. Both were previous service men. They were John F. Cronin, 47 Church street, formerly with the Machine Gun company of the 57th Infantry, and Edmund L. Spayd, 2753 Nashua street, Philadelphia, formerly first sergeant with the camp headquarters company at Camp Dix, N. J. The army recruiting office is at 117 Merrimack street.

LOWELL HALF A GAME BEHIND LEWISTON

Lowell moved up to within half a game of Lewiston Saturday when Fitchburg was defeated, 7 to 2. If Lowell wins the next game with Lewiston losing the local team will go into the lead. Clark was in fine form Saturday and held Fitchburg to six hits, while Boyce, greatly overworked, was hit often and opportunistically. Lowell again played errorless ball and gave Bob sensational support. Fitchburg blew up in the eighth inning when Hayden's team got six runs. The score:

Team	AB	R	H	PO	E
Lowell	36	7	11	27	6
Fitchburg	32	2	6	27	3

Two base hits: Hayden, Clark, Devan. Three base hits: Wafar, Loftus, Stolen bases: Loftus, Baker, Lynch, Hayden, Jacobson. Base on balls: Of Clark 5, of Boyce 4. Struck out: By Clark 5, by Boyce 7. OFFER $30,000 FOR LEONARD-TENDLER GO

Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler have been offered a $30,000 purse for a six-round bout in Philadelphia. Billy Gibson, manager of the champion, says that he will go through with the match, but that Tendler will have to let him name the weight. Tendler is not likely to let him do so and still be $10,000 on the purse. He may box Leonard for the side, one, however, and let Benny specify the weight. Bill Brennan and Billy Miske meet Wednesday night in St. Louis, while on Saturday of this week Jack Britton will box J. Perry at Cumberland, Md.

Georges Clemenceau, premier of France, was chairman of the peace conference.

At first a supreme council or a council of ten was organized so as to include two representatives each from Great Britain, France, the United States, Italy and Japan. Subsequently this council was divided in two parts—a council of four, composed of President Wilson and Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando; and a council of foreign ministers.

The conference of the allied delegations convened officially on January 18 to draw up the terms to be submitted when completed to the German delegation. President Wilson had arrived in France on December 13 and had visited England, Italy and parts of France.

One of the first acts of the conference was to send a proposal to all Russian factions to meet on the Prince's Islands to endeavor to compose the Russian internal situation, but this plan was rejected by the Russians. Various factions which were disputing over territory in different sections of Europe were directed by the peace conference to discontinue their conflicts.

The first step toward the actual drafting of the treaty occurred on January 24 when the conference agreed to the plan for organization of a league of nations and a committee was appointed to draw up a covenant. By January 30 the conference had adopted the plan of governing colonies and backward nations through mandates issued to various nations, subject to the direction and approval of the League of Nations.

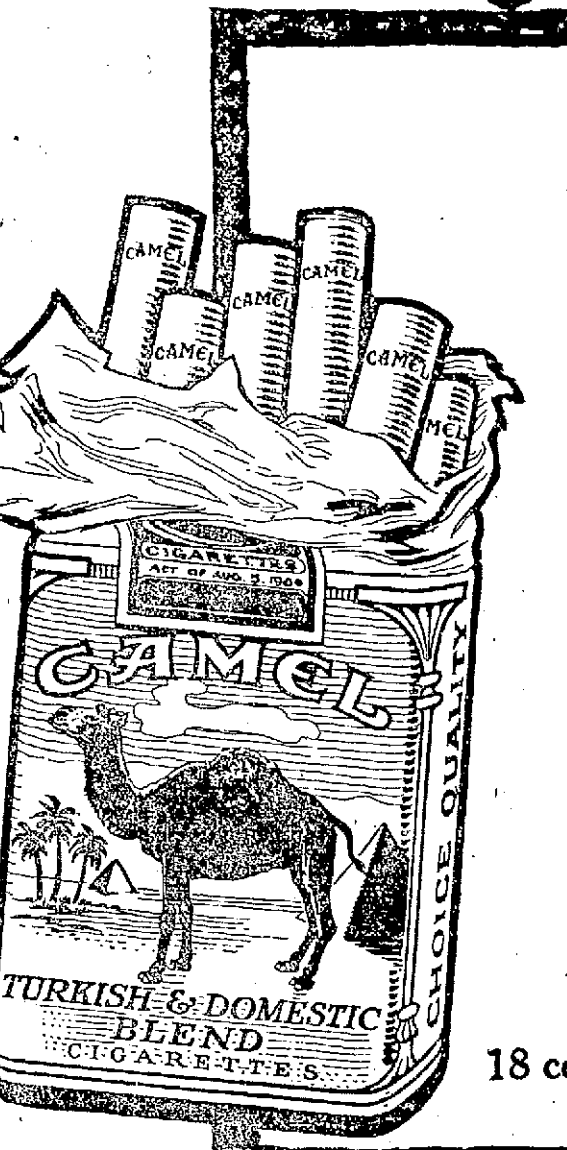

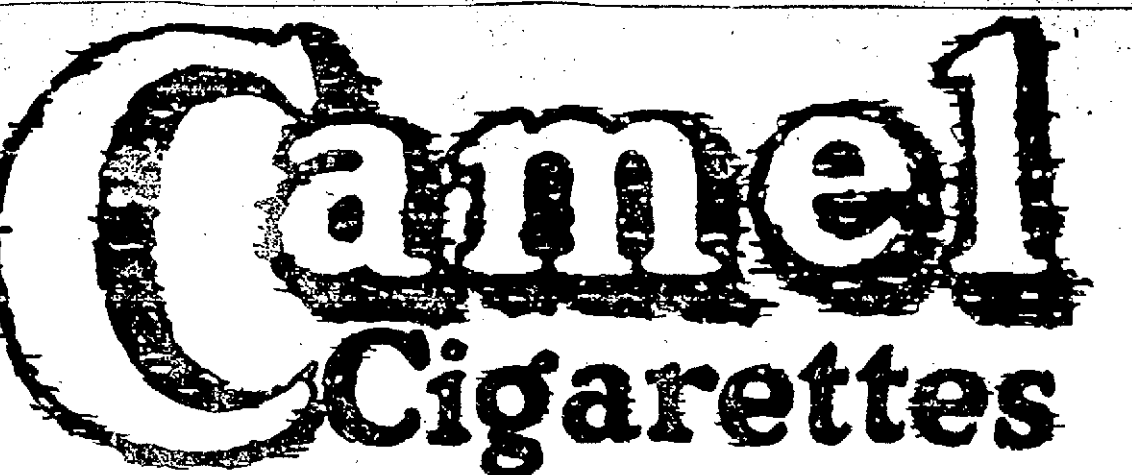

The covenant of the League of Nations was completed on February 14. On the following day President Wilson left France for the United States. He returned to France, arriving there March 13. In his absence the council of ten had continued its work despite an attempt to assassinate Premier Clemenceau.

A report of the international labor legislation committee was adopted April 11. Reparation demands to be made on Germany were approved April 14 and the Germans were invited on April 16 to send their delegation to Versailles to receive the treaty. The peace conference next considered the treaty with Austria. The Italian delegation insisted upon obtaining control of the formerly Austrian city of Fiume but on April 23 President Wilson gave out a statement that Fiume could not be given to Italy. On the next day Premier Orlando returned to Rome and for more than a week thereafter the Italian delegates were absent but returned on May 7 in time to participate in the conference with the German delegates.

A revised covenant of the League of Nations intended to conform in respect to the Monroe Doctrine to objection raised in America was adopted by

TWO BARRACKS BURNED AT CAMP DEVENS

CAMP DEVENS, June 23.—Two barracks buildings in the demobilization area were destroyed by fire about 7 o'clock Saturday night, and one of the biggest scares they have ever experienced at the camp was thrown into officers here, for it was feared that the flames would spread through the flimsy wooden buildings and develop into a conflagration. Only quick and efficient work of the cantonment fire department, led by Lieut. James Harrington of Boston, prevented this.

Just how the fire started has not yet been determined. A board of officers will be appointed to ascertain the origin of the blaze. Officers believe that contact between two electric light wires from which the insulation had been worn off started the fire. Fortunately the barracks were unoccupied. Troops moved out of the buildings only 45 hours before. The buildings destroyed were located in what was the 301st Field Artillery area when the 16th Division was here and what was later the development battalion area. The buildings are used by troops who come here for discharge. As soon as the blaze was discovered an alarm was sounded and though there is a fire station within a few hundred feet of the buildings, and the modern motor apparatus responded promptly, the flames had gained such headway it was impossible to save the buildings. Within half an hour of the time the alarm was sounded the danger of the flames spreading had been averted.

The peace conference on April 28. Geneva was selected as the seat of the league. Shanghai was disposed of on April 30 when the council of three voted to turn it over to the Japanese on assurance that it would be given later to the Chinese. The Germans, headed by Count Brockdorff-Rantzau, arrived in Versailles and presented their credentials to the allied delegates on May 1. The peace treaty was presented to the Germans at Versailles on May 7, the anniversary of the sinking of the Lusitania, and an official summary of the treaty was made public that day. It was also announced that the United States and Great Britain had pledged aid to France against possible future German aggression. The manner in which the Germans received the treaty was described as insolent. Numerous German leaders declared they would not sign it and a week of mourning was decreed by the German government but the decree was virtually unheeded. Thereafter the German delegates submitted various notes to the council of four asking for concessions or criticizing the terms proposed in the treaty as submitted to them. On May 16 it was announced that the German treaty would become effective when ratified by Germany and three of the allied or associated powers. The German reply to the first form of the peace treaty was presented to the allied delegates on May 23 and this was followed by several German counter-proposals. Meanwhile the Austrian delegates had arrived at St. Germain and on June 2 the terms of the peace treaty with Austria as drawn by the allies were submitted to them.

500 CUTTERS STILL OUT AT HAVERHILL

HAVERHILL, June 23.—All members of the Shoeworkers Protective union, with the exception of the cutters who were locked out of the factory a week ago, returned to work this morning. The cutters still out number approximately 500. Cutters of several factories that worked last week are out today because of the failure of the firms to agree to the 44-hour week.

The workers are non-committal in stating whether they intend to respect the demands of their leader and remain at work 45 hours as their contract requires. The cutters and stitchers are divided on this subject, while the other craft are believed to respect the demands of the union.

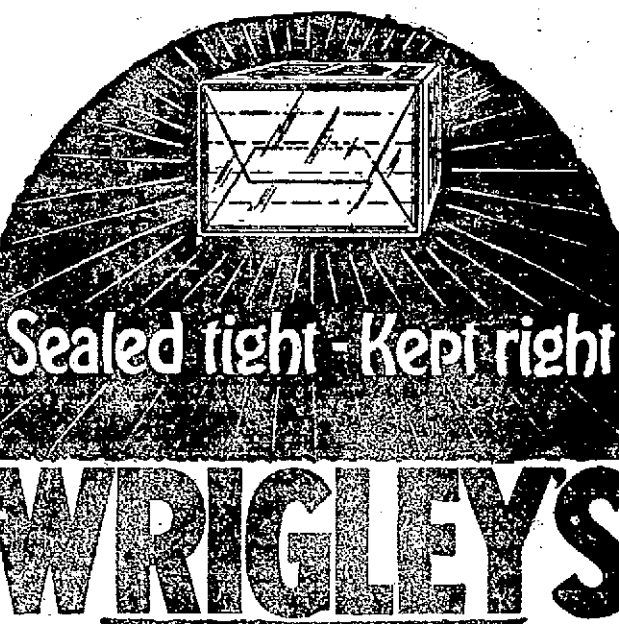

The joint shoe council of the Shoeworkers Protective union will meet this afternoon and reach a common understanding on this subject.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 23.—Anticipation of the early acceptance of the peace treaty by the Germans today's stock market opened with an impressive demonstration of strength, gains among favorite issues ranging from 1 to 4 points. The scope of the early operations indicated an accession of buying orders for speculative interest, which was met by heavy selling, which cancelled a large part of the rise before the end of the first half hour. The reaction affected U. S. Steel and other leaders from 1 to 3 points. The early reversal was attributed to profit-taking by traders who evidently deemed it advisable to forestall such selling as might follow formal announcement of the signing of the treaty. General Motors yielded the greater part of its four point advance but rallied to its previous level. Other motors and oils were not especially responsive and Texas & Pacific suggested realizing on the recent substantial rise. The afternoon session became more extensive, creating greater impairment than in the first reaction. Call money opened at 5 per cent, followed formal announcement of the signing of the treaty. WEIMAR, Sunday, June 22. (By the Associated Press.)—The German warships which were not surrendered to the allies and which have been anchored off Kiel, Wilhelmshaven and other points, have been sunk by German sailors manning them, according to a report received here from a reliable authority.

According to the reports, there were 12 German war vessels, besides destroyers, which were in German waters not having been turned over to the entente under the armistice provisions.

SKEELS MURDER TRIAL

Physical Condition of Accused Woman Greatly Improved Today

LAWRENCE, June 23.—The physical condition of Mrs. Bessie M. (Skeels) Lundgren on trial for the murder of Miss Florence W. Gay of Andover, appeared to be greatly improved over what it was Saturday at the opening of the third week of the trial today.

Dr. A. O. Gettler, who testified on Saturday that as a result of his examination of the organs of Albert J. H. Wilkins, brother of the defendant, with the murder of whom she is charged had died of lead poisoning, was further cross-examined by Attorney Daniel J. Daley, counsel for the defense. He said that while authorities disagree as to the amount of lead necessary to produce fatal results he was satisfied that the amount he found in the body of Wilkins was sufficient to cause death.

On re-direct examination witness said that the lead found in Wilkins' stomach must have been administered within two days of his death. He said that the use of alcohol weakens resistance to lead poisoning.

Mrs. Mary E. Wilkins, widow of the dead man, recalled to the stand, told of talks she had had with Mrs. Skeels in 1918, in which the latter had told her that Mr. Wilkins from whom witness had been divorced, was in a hospital and could not live. She went to him a few days before he died. He had attacks of nausea, complained of his stomach and at times was unconscious.

During a discussion as to meeting the expense involved in securing treatment for Mr. Wilkins, witness said Mrs. Skeels remarked that she had raised money by selling some of her things, including a diamond ring.

After the funeral she said she found a bottle marked "Sugar of lead" in a closet of Wilkins home.

PLANS FOR FOURTH OF JULY PARADE

Plans for Lowell's Fourth of July parade are fast shaping up and indications point to a most successful celebration and welcome to the city's soldiers and sailors.

Invitations to attend the event and to review the parade from city hall have been sent to Gov. Calvin Coolidge, Lt. Gov. Channing Cox, Brig. Gen. Jesse F. Stevens, the adjutant general of this state; Gen. Charles H. Cole, Col. Ed. L. Logan, Col. John F. J. Herbert and mayors of all cities in this state as well as many from other states.

Senators, representatives and other officials have been invited to march on the chief marshal's staff. They will be dismissed.

Gilbert W. Hunt of the Spanish War Veterans has been appointed chief aid of the general staff.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson is especially anxious to have the Lowell clubs put in their best features in the parade not only to show their patriotism and pride, but also to help Chief Marshal Charles Slowsky make that division one of the best in line.

CORP. JAMES DANCKERT REPORTED KILLED

When General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the 26th Division, stood in the aldermanic chamber at city hall in this city a few months ago on the occasion of his public reception by the citizens of Lowell, the first person to grip his hand among the men, women and children who formed the long line of relatives of Lowell boys in the Yankee Division was Miss Mary M. Danckert, a sweet faced young girl who looked into the eyes of the fighting officer appealingly and told about her brother—Corp. James H. Danckert of the 26th who had been missing since the July previous. Did the general know anything about him?

Strive as he would, the commander could not bring a word of positive assurance to the girl before him. He knew what the term "missing" indicated when nothing followed it. And

CORP. JAMES H. DANCKERT

Mary had not heard a word from the war department since July. All General Edwards could do was to offer a word of consolation while several hundred people in the chamber looked on and seemed to realize the poignancy of the scene before them.

That was some time ago. Today comes the finale of that scene with the announcement that Corp. Danckert is officially reported killed. General Edwards' disinclination to offer any false assurance was borne out as being the proper thing to do by the facts recorded in the annals of the war department. Corp. Danckert will ever be missing from his home in this city.

Mrs. Mary J. Donnelly of 135 Summer street has received a telegram from the adjutant general of the war department stating that Corp. Danckert, a member of the 104th Regiment, was killed in action July 18 of last year. Corp. Danckert lived at Mrs. Donnelly's home for several years prior to entering the service when the war call came in the spring of 1917. He was a member of the old 6th Regiment and upon that organization's dissolution into the 104th Regiment, the Lowell soldier became a part of the new unit. He took part in the early American engagements and lost his life a short time after this country actively took part in the conflict. Last July there came word that he was reported missing, but nearly a year has elapsed before definite information has come of his fate.

Besides his sister, Mary of 364 Lawrence street, Corp. Danckert leaves an uncle, James A. Shanley of the high school faculty, and an aunt, Miss Mary A. Shanley, both of Lawrence street.

WENT TO BOSTON TO ATTEND HEARING

There was a general exodus of officials from city hall today as a result of the hearing given at the state house by the committee on municipal finance on the petition of members of the city council, school committee and high school building committee that the city be allowed to borrow beyond the debt limit for the construction of the new high school. Several members of the city council including Mayor Thompson and as well as of the school committee and high school committee attended the hearing.

THE HARVEST IS ON

GERMANY'S APPEAL AND ALLIES' FLAT REFUSAL

PARIS, June 23.—The decision to refuse the German request for an extension of time was reached after a discussion lasting less than an hour.

The German note read as follows: "To His Excellency, the president of the peace conference, M. Clemenceau: 'Mr. President, the minister for foreign affairs instructs me to beg the allied and associated governments to prolong for 48 hours the time limit for answering your excellency's note communicated yesterday evening, and likewise the time limit for answering the note of June 16, 1919.'"

"It was only on Saturday, after great difficulties, that a new cabinet was formed, which, unlike its predecessor, could come to an agreement to declare its willingness to sign the treaty as regards nearly all its provisions. The national assembly has expressed its confidence in this cabinet by a large majority of votes. The answer only arrived here just before midnight as the direct wire from Versailles to Weimar was out of order. The government must come into contact anew with the national assembly in order to take the previous decision which is still required of it in such a manner as it can only be taken in accordance with democratic principles and with the internal situation in Germany."

"Accept, Mr. President, the assurance of my distinguished consideration. (Signed) 'VON HANDEL'."

The following reply was sent after its approval by the council of the allied and associated powers:

"Mr. President: The allied and associated governments beg to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of June 23. After full consideration of your request they regret that it is not possible to extend the time already granted to your excellency to make known your decision relative to the signature of the treaty without any reservation."

(Signed) "CLEMENTEAU."

ALLIES ANSWER GERMAN QUESTIONS

PARIS, June 23.—(By the Associated Press)—A protocol to be added to the peace treaty, explanatory of the six points raised by the Germans, reads: "Firstly: A commission will be named by the allied and associated governments to supervise the demolition of the fortifications of Heligoland in conformity with the treaty. In commission will be empowered to decide what part of the construction protecting the coast from erosion should be preserved, and what part demolished."

"Secondly: The sums which Germany will have to refund to its citizens to indemnify them for interests they may be found to have in the railroads and mines, referred to in paragraph two, article 145, shall be placed to the credit of Germany on account of the sums due for reparation." (The protocol refers to German private interests in railroads and mines in Shantung as distinct from German state interests.)

"Thirdly: A list of the persons whom, according to article 238, paragraph two, Germany must surrender to the powers will be sent to the German government during the month following the putting into force of the treaty.

"Fourthly: The commission on reparations, provided for by article 240 and paragraphs two, three and four of annex four, cannot exact divulgence of secrets of manufacture or confidential information."

"Fifthly: From the signature of peace and in the four months following Germany will have an opportunity of presenting for the examination of the powers documents and propositions with a view to hastening the work relating to reparations, thus shortening the investigation and hastening decisions."

"Sixthly: Prosecutions will be exercised against those committing criminal acts in connection with the liquidation of German property, and the powers will receive any information and proofs that the German government shall be in position to supply on this subject."

In the allied reply to the Germans on the six other points raised by them, the most interesting question dealt with concerns Germany's admission to the League of Nations. The reply denies the German allegation that the terms of the treaty with regard to the league are contradictory, saying the paragraphs mentioned by the Germans are complimentary.

"It says the covenant of the League of Nations declares that members of the league shall take the necessary steps and guarantee the maintenance of liberty of communication and transport and also equitable commercial treatment of all members. "Germany when admitted to the society," the reply says, "will share in the benefits of these stipulations with other countries. Nevertheless, during the period of transition following peace, it is necessary to take into account the special conditions which are laid down on page 426 of the memorandum. The obligations imposed on Germany are therein shown to have the character of reparation measures and their maintenance for five years, far from being incompatible with the principle of equitable treatment, have as their object to assure the application of that principle."

Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy swiveled into his chair at city hall this morning after a week's absence along the Atlantic seaboard and points west. Originally, Mr. Murphy left with the purpose in mind of attending the class reunion of his old alma mater at St. Mary's college, Emmetsburg, Md. The commissioner is a member of the class of 1889 and his classmates assembled in large numbers for their first get-together in the 30 years that they have been hitting the line on the field of life.

It was a happy occasion, so says the commissioner, and many a pleasant experience of college days was once more lived. Then the commencement exercises of the current class were being held and Mr. Murphy was made to feel at home when Sen. David I. Walsh was awarded an LL.D. degree for his good work here in Massachusetts. From Monday to Wednesday there was a series of reunions and commencement activities and the chief boss of the street department from Lowell, Mass., was kept on the job every minute.

One couldn't be near so many places of interest without visiting a few, thought the commissioner when the college festivities were over and so he mapped out a nonchalant itinerary for the home-bound trip which took in Wilmington, Md., Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Baltimore, Coney Island and other points of interest, as the seashore steamer advertisements are wont to say.

Atlantic City is all that it should be, in Mr. Murphy's opinion. No matter how many people are there, it never seems crowded.

Brooklyn, N. Y., had one big attraction for him—its streets. He marveled at their width. Some of them have one section for horseback riders, another for motorists, another for autoists, etc. Mr. Murphy's dream of an ideal Lowell could be realized quickly with the transfer of a few of Brooklyn's streets to this city.

Coney Island—there's the place, the commissioner says. Well may it be called the playground of America. A few novelties such as airship men, who charge you a dollar a minute for taking you up in the air with 15 minutes the least they will consider, and a general entertainment palace where in one may hear a band, an orchestra, singing, see a moving picture show and enjoy dancing, all for 30 cents, made the trip decidedly interesting.

WILSON PREPARING TO START FOR HOME

PARIS, June 23.—Activities noted today at the Paris residence of President Wilson appear to indicate that preparations were being made for the president's departure for home.

Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon, there had been no announcement made, but it seemed probable from what was known that the president would leave Paris on Wednesday, barring the unexpected.

SHOOTING IN DRACUT

Engineer at Richardson Farm Shot—Farm Hand Held as Suspect

Abdul Harmouch, 25, of Dracut, was arrested by Officer Cullinan early this morning and booked at the police station on suspicion of assault with intent to kill upon Daniel Ashton, 675 Mammoth road, who was shot and seriously injured by an unknown assailant while at his work in the boiler room of the greenhouse of the Richardson farm, Dracut, shortly after midnight last night. Harmouch denied all knowledge of the affair to the police, but is being held pending an investigation of the shooting.

According to the story of the police Ashton was lying down in the boiler room of the greenhouse where he is employed as fireman, when someone fired a shot at him from a small calibre revolver. He jumped to his feet and as he did so a second shot was fired which struck him in the back.

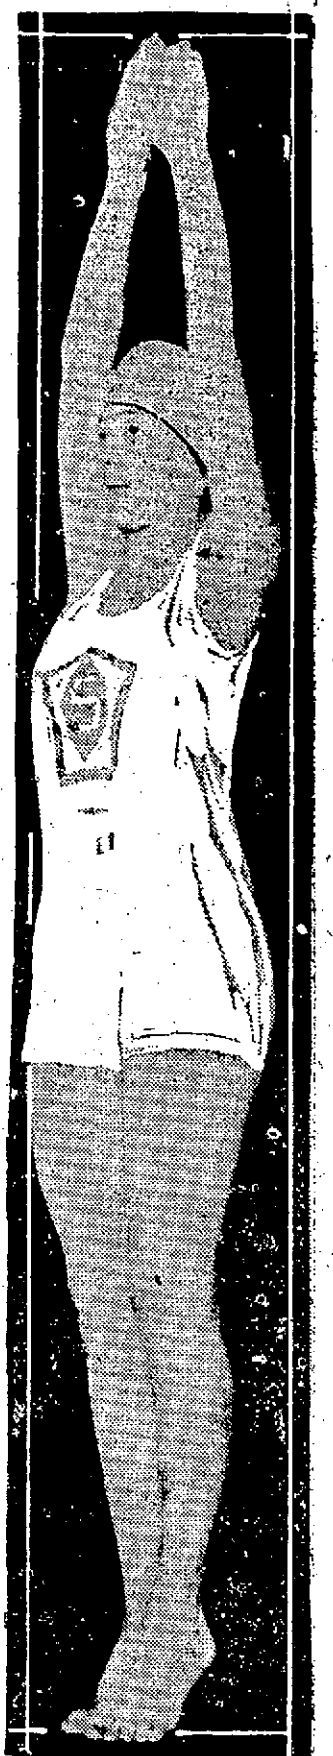

A hurry call was sent for the ambulance and he was removed to the Corporation hospital where it was found that the wound, although of a serious nature, was not necessarily fatal. Officer Cullinan was called to the scene, and after hearing the injured man's story, arrested Harmouch, whom he found in bed in his quarters. Harmouch declared that he had been in bed since 10 o'clock in the evening and knew nothing of the shooting. He was brought to the police station and booked at 3:55 a. m. on suspicion of assault with intent to kill.

Ashton is 48 years old and lives with his wife and family at 675 Mammoth road. He has been employed at the Richardson farm for the past three months. According to his statement he had an argument with Harmouch, who is also employed at the farm, a short time ago, and believed that the assault might have been the result of the ill feeling occasioned by the dispute.

GIRLS! SWIM

Your way straight to health, grace and beauty! says Marjorie Breckenridge, the famous swimming instructor of the Y.V.C.A. Her articles are appearing exclusively in The Sun. The girl who values vacation fun won't miss these expert lessons in the greatest of all summer sports. The girl who values health as well as fun will find them of still greater interest.

"Good swimming means good looks. The girl who swims has the smile that wins. The better you swim, the better your dancing—the more graceful your walking." So says Marjorie Breckenridge, author of this fascinating series of articles on swimming, written especially for The Sun. Every girl, whether accustomed to the water or not, will find help in these lessons toward getting still more pleasure and health from the shore or swimming pool.

FRENCH ANGRY OVER SINKING OF SHIPS

PARIS, June 23.—The sinking of the German warships by their crews, it was apparent here today, does not affect the general situation regarding peace with Germany.

While the act is generally denounced as a violation of the armistice technically, if not actually, in British and American circles, no marked regret is expressed.

In French quarters, however, there is understood to be considerable feeling which, it is expected, will reflect itself in Italian circles. France and Italy have been opposing the much discussed plan of sinking the German fleet, which was favored supposedly by the Americans and the British.

The German ships at Scapa Flow did not have red flags flying when they went down, according to advices received today by the American peace delegation.

KISSING THE BRIDE

SINKING OF HUN SHIPS

British Naval Expert Admires Spirit of Germans in Destroying Own Ships

LONDON, June 22.—Arthur Pollen, the naval expert, in an interview in the Despatch regarding the sinking of the German warships in Scapa Flow, admires the spirit of the Germans in sinking their ships rather than to allow them to pass into the possession of their enemies.

The article in the Despatch recalls that a writer in an evening paper recently practically prophesied the destruction of the German ships. This writer emphasized the case of secret demolition charges in the modern warship, adding "many people in the navy believe that the ships left, Germany with dynamite charges already in position and that when the discussion of the peace conference was announced the Scapa Flow would be the scene of a big pyrotechnic display."

Commander Kenworthy, M. P., told the Despatch that it was the easiest thing in the world to sink a ship by opening the Kingston valve or removing the covers of the condensers.

"The story is remarkable," said Lord Sydenham. "Explosives could not have been used, as they are all believed to have been removed. Assuming that the Kingston valves were opened the ships would not sink in less than five hours. The loss of the ships does not matter, but it is annoying that we were outwitted."

Commander Bellairs, M. P., declared that no watch from the guard boats could have prevented the sinking of the ships and that therefore the sailors on the spot were not to be blamed.

"The admiralty is responsible," Commander Bellairs declared, "for they made the mistake but were not thinking of the terms. The only lesson is that the first case of police work for the League of Nations has been unsuccessful and that the German remains true to type."

Admiral Sir Percy Scott interviewed by the Sunday Times regards the sinking of the German ships as something to be expected.

"It serves us right," he said, "for trusting the Huns. They showed throughout the war that they are not a civilized race and they never ought to have been treated as such; they are barbarians."

The Weekly Despatch says that according to an officer who visited the German fleet last month, the ships when they arrived in Scapa Flow were searched for explosives but not stringently.

The admiralty officials made a hasty survey last November, but since then everybody, including British officers, was kept away because it was the opinion of the government that the ships should not be treated as surrendered until the peace conference had decided their fate.

"The public will insist upon the disclosure of the blunder, or blunders, whose egregious trustfulness was so cynically abused," says the Weekly Despatch in its editorial comment. "As the ships were in the custody of the British navy as trustees for the allies, a most searching investigation into the nature of the precautions taken obviously is necessary."

Violent Explosion
LONDON, June 23.—Early yesterday morning a violent explosion occurred close to the spot where one of the German warships was sunk Saturday, says a Kirkwall despatch to the Central News. A huge column of water and much debris was thrown up.

The single German warship, which remained anchored Saturday night has gone aground. All the German crews have been placed aboard the British battleship Royal Sovereign.

SEN. KNOX'S RESOLUTION IS ABANDONED

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Senate leaders opposing the League of Nations abandoned yesterday their plan to try for a test vote in the immediate future on the Knox resolution, and turned their attention to crystallizing sentiment behind Elihu Root's proposal that the league covenant be ratified with reservations.

The decision was taken as a forecast that the league's fight would remain in a quiescent state during the coming week, and probably until the treaty is submitted for ratification, about two weeks hence. There may be some debate on the subject and possibly an attempt to get action on a substitute for the Knox measure, but in the main the opposition efforts seem certain from now on to centre on the final ratification fight itself.

Republican Leader Lodge, in a statement last night announcing that the Knox resolution would not be called up today, said the decision had been prompted by a desire to give undivided senate attention to pressing appropriation bills.

Other league opponents are known to feel also that action now would be inappropriate, since the resolution, introduced two weeks ago by Senator Knox, republican, of Pennsylvania, was resigned principally to require a provision in the peace treaty by which the senate could ratify the document, and still reserve judgment on the league.

CAR SHOP MEN HOLD SMOKE TALK

Local 315, I. A. of M. of the Boston and Maine car shops held a very enjoyable smoke talk at the rooms of the organization on Saturday evening. There were over three hundred members, including many returned heroes from the army and navy, present and all voted the affair the "best ever."

Pres. G. F. Kenney opened the meeting with an address of welcome, after which Chairman M. C. Hannahan took charge and he ran off the program in a most satisfactory manner. James B. Donnelly gave a number of pleasing selections, and Jas. J. O'Regan showed much dramatic ability in several clas-

ATTENTION CALLED TO IMPORTANT LAW

One of the most important laws ever enacted which affects the employment of boys under 18 years of age and women of any age and which has particular application to this city was passed by the Massachusetts legislature during its current session and William F. Thornton, chief attendance officer of the school department, is anxious to have local employers become acquainted with it, especially at the present time when the school vacation season is beginning.

The act in question provides that no child under 18 and no woman shall be employed in any mercantile or mechanical establishment more than 9 hours in any one day and not more than 48 hours in any one week. This act goes into effect July 23. At the present time the people specified in the new act are allowed to work as long as 54 hours a week.

Mr. Thornton says that the new law will revolutionize local stores, as most of them employ their clerks more than 48 hours a week. The act will mean that the employers will have to regulate the system of hours so that the terms of the act will be lived up to. The logical method will be to have clerks come in later in the morning.

The closing of the schools has brought the annual busy season to the attendance office of the school department at city hall. School children are getting ready to work during the summer vacation and others who have finished or are about to finish their school career are making ready to take up permanent employment. Practically all of them will have to pay a visit to the attendance office.

According to Mr. Thornton, the majority of those affected by the labor laws are between 14 and 16, although the law also applies in certain instances to children until they become 21 years old. The modus operandi for a child who wishes to go to work permanently is a simple one if followed out according to directions furnished the teachers in the various schools.

No one under 14 years of age will be given a working certificate. Those who are 14 or older who wish to work permanently must fill out a school certificate which may be obtained at the school they are now attending. This certificate must show that the child in question has had at least 100 days' schooling since his or her thirteenth birthday. If the child is to work only for a few months, this is not necessary.

The second document to be filled out is also obtainable at all the local public and parochial schools. It is called the "promise of employment" and is filled out by the firm or individual about to employ the child. It states what kind of work the child is to do and what the hours are to be. The law provides that children shall not work after 6 p. m. nor more than eight hours a day if they are between 14 and 16. This certificate must be examined and signed by a school or family physician stating that the child in question is capable of doing the work specified on the card.

The third essential is a copy of the child's birth certificate. If he or she were born in Lowell, it may be obtained at the office of the city clerk at city hall. If not, it must be sent away for.

The school attendance office where working papers are issued is on the third floor of city hall and is open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

used to increase the pressure of the hydrants, with the result that within a very short time eight lines of hose were playing on the building.

The oil portion of the building was equipped with a sprinkler system with two large water tanks on the roof of the structure as reservoirs, but shortly after the fire got well started the tanks caught fire and burned. Eight lines of hose were kept busy throwing tons of water into the building from two sides, but no headway was being made, for the top floor of the building was filled with cotton bales and when the flames seemed to get the better of the blaze at one point, it broke out anew in another place. It was impossible for anyone to enter the structure as volumes of thick black smoke poured from the windows and the interior was a mass of flames.

When the blaze burst through the roof the firemen climbed over and through the opening and poured in heavy streams of water. Two charged cables extending from a pole in the yard to the building gave the firemen considerable trouble and some of them received minor shocks. The Lowell Electric Light Corp. was notified and shortly afterward one of the trouble men of the corporation was sent to the scene. He climbed the pole and cut the cables. Just then the pole, which was heavily loaded with cross bars, swayed to one side and it was feared that the man would be thrown to the ground. The pole swayed the other way, however, snapped off but fortunately for the man on top of it, it rested against the building.

The major portion of the work of the firemen was in the rear of the building, for the flames were being fanned in the direction of the small wooden building in which the detonators were stored. After about two hours of hard work the fire was under control and was not allowed to spread from the top story of the building. Later the men were able to enter the structure and work from the inside. Bales of cotton were rolled to the windows and thrown out of the building and this afforded the firemen a better chance to work. The fire was entirely under control shortly before 11 o'clock, but it is expected that a few firemen will have to remain on the job for some time in case it should start up again.

In the yard in the rear of the building is located a small powder magazine which contained hundreds of pounds of powder, stored there by the Newton Mfg. Co., pending orders from the United States government to remove it. Special attention was given the magazine during the fire, although it was located some distance from the burning building.

Several police officers in charge of Lieut. Connor were on duty during the fire and kept the crowd away from the building.

The building is owned by Edward Cawley and was leased to the Newton Mfg. Co., which in turn sub-leased the oil portion to the Northern Waste Co., a Boston concern, which deals in cotton waste. The waste, which is the products of various local and out-of-town mills is brought to the factory and after it is sorted, it is baled and shipped away. This morning's fire was in the storage department, which covers the entire top floor. On the floors below were machinery of the Northern Waste Co., as well as machinery owned by the Newton Mfg. Co., which was stored there. All of the machinery was more or less damaged by water.

One of the officials of the Northern Waste Co. stated this morning that waste to the value of between $50,000 and $100,000 was stored on the premises and he presumed it was completely destroyed. He stated, however, that the company carried some insurance on its stock. The building also suffered great damage, but Mr. Cawley was not in a position this morning to state just what his loss would be, although he stated that there was some insurance on the structure. Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building. A similar fire, but not as disastrous, occurred in the same building a year ago last September.

$12,500,000 MERGER OF WIRE CONCERN

WORCESTER, June 23.—The Wright Wire company and the Morgan Spring company, both of Worcester, and the Clinton Wire Cloth company, with an office in Boston and plant in Clinton, Mass., have consolidated under the name of the Clinton-Wright Wire company, a Massachusetts corporation, capitalized at $12,500,000.

Ex-Mayor George M. Wright, president of the Wright Wire company, is chairman of the board of directors, and Evan F. Jones, treasurer and general manager of the Morgan Spring company, is president and general manager.

It was organized through Liggett & Drexel, members of the New York Stock exchange. The new company will employ about 3000 and will have a tonnage of about 60,000 tons of wire rods annually.

MAKE AMERICANS DRY IN ALL PARTS OF WORLD

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The extremes to which the "drys" are going in their campaign is well illustrated by a petition filed in the house by Representative Thompson of Colorado, which, if passed, would prohibit an American citizen in any part of the world from taking a drink. It asks for the enactment of a law requiring the extension of prohibition to American residents of foreign countries with which we have treaties.

Such an amendment would, for instance, prevent an American tourist from getting a drink in Bermuda or Jamaica, which are under the English flag.

CROPS TO SUCCEED EARLY PLANTINGS

It is now time for the home gardener to think about the crops he will plant to succeed his early spring plantings. Spinach, radishes and lettuce have "gone by" in most gardens and early peas will soon be harvested and pulled up. The question naturally arises in the minds of many gardeners—"What shall I plant now?"

Shell beans may be planted up to July 1st and string beans up to July 10th. Beets and carrots for winter use may be sown as late as the middle of July and very satisfactory results obtained. Cos lettuce is an excellent variety to plant during the summer months as it withstands the heat better than the other varieties. Kohl-Rabi is an excellent vegetable that grows quickly. It should not be planted later than the second week in July. Cauliflower plants may now be set out although gardeners as a rule find them somewhat difficult to raise.

See to it that your root crops are thinned before they commence to crowd. Thin beets to two inches apart in the row and when the young beets begin to crowd, thin again. Let your beets grow six inches or more in height before thinning as they make the best greens at this stage. The following distances are about right to leave between vegetables when thinning—carrots 2½ inches, parsnips 4 inches, beans 2 inches, corn in drill 6 inches, chard 6 inches, New Zealand spinach 12 inches and pole beans, squash and cucumbers 4 to 6 plants to the hill.

If your vegetables are growing slowly spread a pinch of sodium nitrate around the plants and hoe it into the soil. Another way to apply this plant stimulant is to dissolve a teaspoonful of it in a quart of water and sprinkle the soil around the plants with it, taking care not to touch the foliage with the nitrate. Sodium nitrate produces fine results on all plants grown for their leaves.

If you wish to raise some good early tomatoes, work into the soil around the plant a small handful of acid phosphate. Then make three or four applications about 10 days apart of sodium nitrate to the plants.

Tomato plants should be trained to two stems and tied up to a stake. This method of training keeps the vines up off the ground and allows the sunlight to reach every part of the plant. This induces earliness in the crop, produces better fruit and lessens the blossom and rot trouble. All lateral branches should be nipped off. These grow from the junction of the main stem and a leaf. The fruit stems grow out from the main stem itself so there should be nipped off. These grow from lateral branches.

Many gardeners have the idea that a garden should be watered every day during a dry spell. This is a bad practice as it tends to draw the plant roots toward the surface. The garden dries out quickly the next day and a crust forms on the surface which produces a condition for a rapid evaporation of moisture from the soil. Frequent cultivation of the garden does more good than several waterings. This is especially true in hot, dry weather. If your garden needs water, soak it thoroughly in the evening and next day give it a good cultivation so, it will hold the moisture. A garden should be cultivated after every heavy rain.

BOY KILLED WHILE PLAYING WITH GUN

SPRINGFIELD, June 23.—Leon Rogers, 13, son of Frank Rogers, of 11 Woodbine avenue, was instantly killed yesterday morning by the accidental discharge of a rifle with which he was playing at the home of a boy chum, Albert Lamere, 61 Woodbine avenue.

The rifle belonged to Lamere's father. The boys were fooling with it and had snapped the trigger several times. Since there was no report, they thought it was empty. Rogers rested the butt against the doorstep and peeked down the barrel at the same time pressing the trigger by knocking it against the step so that the gun was discharged.

The bullet went between the boy's eyes. It came from the only cartridge in the rifle.

Mrs. Rogers, mother of the boy, and another son died in the hospital of influenza last November, and the father is in Alstead, N. H., where he was married Thursday to a nurse. He was notified.

BILL IN EQUITY AGAINST THE BOSTON & MAINE

BOSTON, June 23.—Minority stockholders of the Boston & Maine railroad today filed a bill in equity in the supreme court against the Boston & Maine Railroad Co., attacking the validity of outstanding loans of the road and its leased lines amounting to $13,000,000 which the legislature of 1915 in what is known as the reorganization plan authorized the company to pay. It is claimed that the act is unconstitutional in that the legislature exercised both executive and judicial powers, and also because it deprives persons of property without trial by jury. The minority stockholders who bring the bill through counsel, are: Arthur H. Stevens and Cornelia M. Dodd of Boston; Madeline Foster of Newton; William C. Hunneman of Brookline and William H. Colby of Salem.
